CONGRESS RUSHES MEASURE

GOOCH IS FIRST EXECUTED UNDER LINDBERGH LAW

Oklahoman Abducted Two Texas Officers, Released Them Unharmed.

STATE PRISON, McALESTER, Okl. (UP). Arthur Gooch, 27, who kidnaped two Texas officers and released them unharmed after carrying them into Oklahoma, was hanged Friday, first person to die for violation of the Lindbergh law. Gooch dropped thru the trap at 5:07 a. m., and was declared dead about 15 minutes later. Until the last he hoped for executive clemency.

Gooch was convicted of kidnaping R. N. Baker and H. E. Marks in Paris, Tex., in order to escape arrest. The men were released at Snow, Okl., unharmed except for a cut Baker suffered when he fell Gooch showed no emotion as he mounted the steps of the 18 foot gallows. He told U. S. Deputy Marshal George Hall he had no statement to make.

STATE SCHOOL FUND GETS LICENSE FEES

Supreme Court Denies Application of Omaha School District.

The supreme court Friday, in an opinion by Judge Paine, held that the funds collected by the state liquor control commission as state license fees and paid to the state treasurer and by him credited to the state school fund, and denied the application of the Omaha school district for a declaratory judgment that these fees belong to the political subdivision wherein they are collected. Judge Day of Omaha alone dissented.

The case involved a construction of the liquor control act passed at the last session of the legislature. State officers, including State Superintendent Taylor in charge of distribution, had construed the law as meaning that the moneys collected should be distributed as are other temporary school fund moneys, between all school districts on

CUDAHY COMPANY IS SUING

Wants to Recover $11,908,983 Process Tax.

CHICAGO. (AP). The Cudahy Packing company filed suit in federal court to recover $11,908,983.83 which was paid to the government in processing taxes under the invalidated AAA. In a decision returned in January, following the invalidation of the AAA, the supreme court ruled that some $200,000,000 of impounded processing taxes would have to be returned to the processors.

The decision, however, did not rule on the right of the processors to recover more than one billion dollars of processing taxes not impounded.

CHICAGO WHEAT CLIMBS NEARLY 5 CENT LIMIT

Kansas City and Minneapolis Up Maximum—Crop Reports Sensational.

CHICAGO. (AP). Wheat prices soared 4¾ cents a bushel, within ¼ of the limit permitted in one session, in a bull market inspired by sensational reports of crop losses in drouth regions. The Kansas City and Minneapolis futures markets both closed at the highest point allowed for one day's trading, 5 cents higher.

September wheat at Chicago reached 93¼ cents a bushel just before the market closed and other deliveries here as well as in other major North American markets rose sharply in sympathy. Wheat, corn, oats and rye futures sold at the highest prices of the season on the Chicago board of trade.

Receipts of reliable reports that wheat would be a total failure in some sections of the northwestern spring crop area unless rain comes at once loosed a wave of speculative buying that whirled values upward to well above 90 cents a bushel for July and September delivery. Light rains were reported in parts of the Canadian wheat belt but dry weather prevailed generally on this side of the border.

A Chicago crop expert touring the Dakotas reported drouth had damaged wheat thruout northern South Dakota. Specific reports from some counties in the Dakotas asserted all small grains were past redemption.

Some traders said serious losses of spring wheat for the third consecutive year might prevent the United States from returning to a wheat export basis at the conclusion of harvest.

NINE CHILDREN DROWN ON A MAINE OUTING

MACHIAS, Me. (AP). Nine children were reported drowned in Lake Gardiner a few miles from here when a boat containing 15 children attending a picnic overturned.

Doctors and firemen from Machias and East Machias rushed to the scene in an effort to revive the victims. Early reports of the tragedy were incomplete. First advices indicated that the bodies of two children had been recovered.

THIRD FLIGHT Consolations: Mrs. Fred Corzine, Happy Hollow, beat Mrs. Joe Muller, Happy Hollow, 1 up.

BY JOHN BENTLEY.

HAPPY HOLLOW CLUB, OMAHA, Nebr.—Mrs. Fred Sidles, defending champion continued her one woman parade in the Nebraska state golf tournament Friday as she stood nine up on Mrs. W. O. Larson, Happy Hollow champion, at the end of the morning 18 of their 36 hole finals match.

Mrs. Sidles' play was a dead ringer for the weather—blistering. However, that bad slump caught her again and she lost one hole, when Mrs. Larson laid her a stymie on the second which saw the defending titlist slip two over par. On only one other hole was she over par finishing with a medal of 82, three over women's par.

Her ability to get what the boys call "big wood shots" together enabled her to get her pars easily. Only once all morning did she hit her second shot before Mrs. Larson had played her second on the longer holes.

An example of her tremendous hitting came on No. 6 when, with a slight wind behind her, Mrs. Sidles carried 200 yards and rolled 40 more for a 240 yard wallop. Their morning cards.

Par out	4	4	4	3	4	5	5	5	5	—39
Sidles	4	6	4	3	4	5	5	5	5	—41
Larson	5	5	4	4	5	5	5	6	5	—45
Par in	5	5	5	3	4	5	5	5	5	—40	—	79
Sidles	6	4	6	6	4	7	6	4	7	—41	—	82
Larson	6	4	6	5	4	7	6	4	5	—48	—	93

Three Up at Turn.

Mrs. Sidles went one up on the third hole and was never behind. She one putted No. 3 and No. 4 for pars while Mrs. Larson slipped one over on each hole. On No. 7, Mrs. Larson's putted, which had been so effective against Mrs. Margaret Anderson Thursday, failed her and she three putted.

CHANGE EMPLOYES OF STATE ASSISTANCE

Four Notified by Tolen They Will Be Replaced First of July.

State Assistance Director Tolen made the first move toward reorganizing the administrative staff of his office in accordance with the requirements of the federal government when three field investigators and one office assistant were notified that they will be replaced July 1 by men who have greater qualifications for the work.

Tolen said the field men, at the suggestion of Representative Witte of the social security board, would serve as auditors of the records of county assistance committees. Four of the present field men were deemed qualified for that work. The three others will be supplanted by auditors. The office assistant is to be replaced by a case supervisor as yet unselected.

Tolen returned from a meeting of assistance officials of 17 central Nebraska counties at Grand Island to report that county officials in that section are unanimously opposed to any drastic change in the setup of local administration.

All of the county commissioners and treasurers he said, voiced opposition to the hiring of professional social workers as county investigators.

Director Maude Nuquist of the child welfare bureau, announced that the crippled children aid program has been approved by the federal government and that federal funds have been promised.

With only ten days remaining in the present fiscal year, the federal government still is withholding Nebraska's old age assistance money.

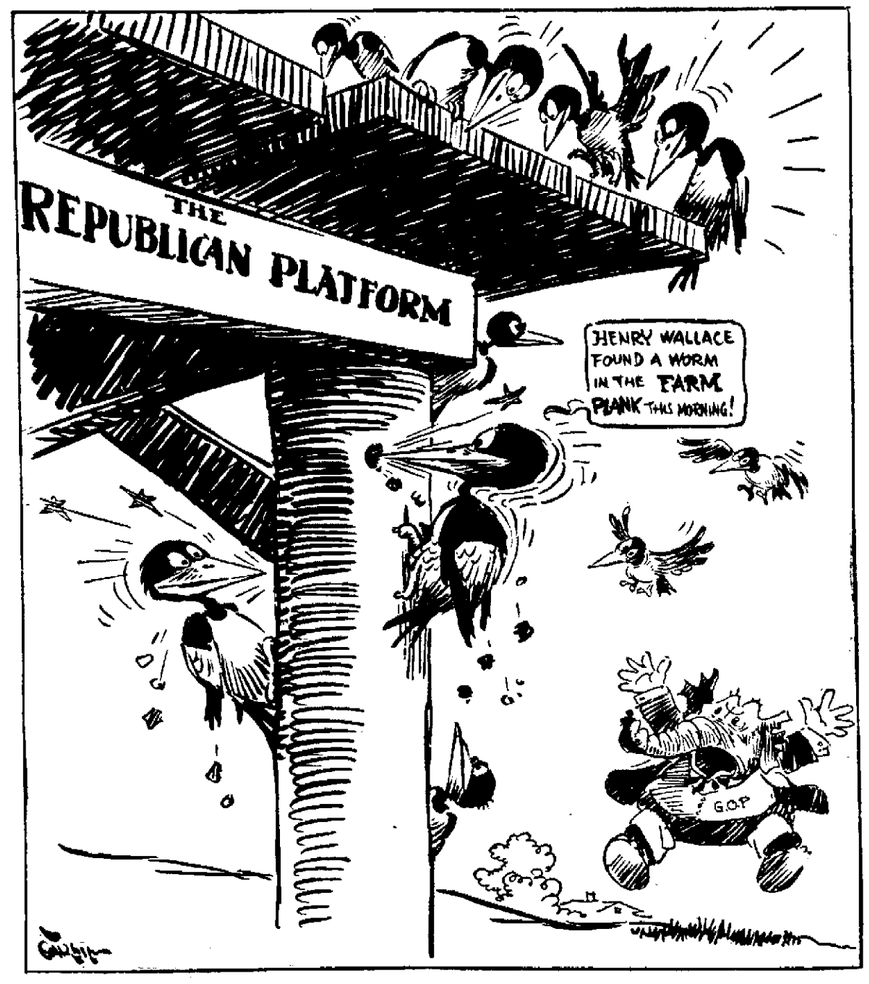

CRASH NETS TWO DEATHS

Willis Wade, 24, Dies in Beatrice Hospital.

BEATRICE, Neb. (AP). Willis Wade, 24, of DeWitt died in a hospital here Friday of injuries suffered Tuesday in an automobile accident in which Lawrence Wade, 10, a brother, was killed instantly.

Another brother, Clyde, 21, remains in serious condition. The car in which the three brothers and Lyle Carney were riding turned over near DeWitt after grazing the rear of a beer truck as it turned from the road into a driveway.

PICKING THE PLATFORM TO PIECES

ABANDON DRIVE ON RETAIL LIQUOR SALE

Anti-Saloon League Satisfied With Candidates for Nebraska Offices.

Nebraska Anti-Saloon league will save $3,000 and get along about as well, Supt. Ford believes, by abandoning the petition campaign it began recently to abolish sale by liquor by the drink in the state.

"The headquarters committee met this week and fully canvassed the situation," says the superintendent. "We pass their conclusions on to you. A survey shows that, on the whole, high type men have been nominated for the legislature thruout the state. This encourages us to believe that the aim of the petition can be accomplished without the expenditure of the $3,000 which would be needed to carry thru the initiative campaign.

"We therefore advise our friends that further circulation of petitions will be unnecessary, and may be halted. The work done has been very valuable in getting the matter agitated, and in laying the foundation for a real program of anti-liquor legislation at the coming session of the legislature. This program will include not only abolishing liquor by the drink, but a county and local option law so that localities may decide their own policy as to package liquor and beer.

"Under no circumstances must we let down for a moment. Courage and constant effort are needed from every friend of decency until our late resurrected enemy is again placed under the sod, and to stay. Study very carefully the candidates for legislative and law enforcement offices.

REXALL TRAIN TO BE HERE

Huge Streamliner Arrives on Burlington Saturday.

Residents of Lincoln will have an opportunity to view for the first time the specially built million dollar Rexall convention train when it arrives at the Burlington station Saturday morning. The train is made up of 12 streamlined cars and is a quarter of a mile long. The train is making stops in 147 towns during its eight months on the road and is being used for conventions in 109 cities in the United States and Canada.

Two cars of the train, each seating 150 people, are used for meetings. Four cars are used for exhibits—one houses a model drug store and the other three show the latest sales promotion methods, and new ideas in display and stock arrangements. Delegates to the conventions dance in two special cars to the music of the "Rexall Ramblers," the orchestra which travels with the train.

The public is invited to inspect the train from 10 a. m. to 9 p. m. Saturday at the Burlington station. Free admission tickets may be obtained at the Harley Drug company.

FRENCH HAVE ALREADY ATTEMPTED INFLATION

Minister of Finance Says Treasury Empty, Borrowing Exhausted.

PARIS. (UP). The French treasury is empty, this year's authorized borrowing already has been exhausted and 14,000,000,000 francs ($922,600,000) in disguised inflation already has been carried out, Vincent Auriol, minister of finance, told the chamber of deputies in his long-awaited report on national finances.

He revealed that in the face of these conditions, government requirements between now and December will total 8,000,000,000 francs ($527,200,000). In addition, Auriol explained, France must repay a 3,000,000,000 franc ($197,700,000) British loan.

The treasury in 1936, he said, was authorized to borrow 22,780,000,000 francs ($1,501,000,000) of which all but 840,000,000 francs

DEATH OF MOTHER AND TWO BABES IS PROBED

Wife of Assistant Professor of Uni of Pittsburgh Victim.

PITTSBURGH. (UP). From meager clues authorities sought to solve the strange death mystery involving the wife and two children of an assistant professor of the University of Pittsburgh. The attractive young woman and her children were found strangled in their Squirrel Hill apartment.

Racing here by automobile from Pottersville, N. J., was Prof. Martin J. Feely of the university's physical education department, notified of the tragedy by telephone.

C. F. Young, owner of the old family mansion of which the Feelys occupied the ground floor, peered into the window. He saw the body of Robert, 5, stretched on the floor. He and police broke in. Robert and Janice, 3, had been strangled. Mrs. Feely, 27, had been strangled, too, but she also had been stabbed in the temple with an ice pick.

Police professed to find evidence that Mrs. Feely had killed her children and then killed herself, but the coroner's investigators said this was manifestedly impossible—that an unknown person had killed all three. Friends of the Feelys also decried the police theory. Mrs. Feely was evidently packing preparatory to joining her husband in New Jersey; she was a well educated, normal, and happy person, not a type likely to kill her own children and herself, her friends said.

A rope had been noosed around Mrs. Feely's neck and the radiator. A hammer had been inserted into the noose and twisted until the rope was so tight it cut deeply into her throat. The hammer was

CONVICTS STAGE REVOLT

Finally Subdued by Guards Aboard Train.

CHICAGO, (AP). Eight rebellious convicts, subdued by their five guards in a riotous battle aboard a speeding train, were whisked off to the Leavenworth penitentiary. The felons, seven of them narcotics law violators, were enroute from Toledo, O., to the federal prison when they suddenly rose in mutiny.

They screamed demands for drugs, fought their warders, hurled glasses and tables, shattered windows and wrecked the interior of their private Pullman car before they were forced into submission.

The struggle, Chicago police said, lasted a half hour. Notified of the outbreak, 25 Chicago detectives, government narcotics agents and a police surgeon, raced to the La Salle street terminal. But the mutineers were handcuffed and under control when the train arrived

TO END NEUTRALITY ACT

WASHINGTON. (UP). The United States plans to rescind the terms of the neutrality act as applied to Italy and Ethiopia as soon as it is definitely determined that fighting has stopped, it was learned in high administration circles. As soon as pacification of the remaining one-third is accomplished and the administration has definite information that fighting has ceased everywhere, the neutrality act will be taken out of operation as applied to the former combatants.

CROP PROSPECTS IN MIDWEST DECLINING

Spring Grains and Hay Crop Suffering From Drouth, Corn Not Hurt.

WASHINGTON. (UP). The federal crop reporting board issued a special report stating that "prospects for spring grains and hay crops declined during the first half of June." The statement added that "pastures have also been adversely affected by the dry weather."

"Crops are in critical condition in western North and South Dakota and in eastern Montana," the board said. "In northeastern Wyoming, crops have had only partial relief.

"Corn, altho threatened in some areas, does not appear to have suffered seriously as yet, and prospects for most field crops have probably improved in the far northwest, in much of the southwest (wheer rainfall was heavy during May), and in parts of other states (chiefly Wisconsin, Michigan, northern Iowa, Minnesota and Nebraska), wheer rainfall has been adequate during June. So far, however, improvement in these areas has not offset the decline in crop prospects in the drouth areas."

ADJOURNMENT BY SATURDAY NIGHT SEEMS ASSURED

Tax Bill Still in Doubt—O. K. Labor Regulations, Marine Subsidy.

WASHINGTON. (AP). Labor regulations for government contractors and an outright subsidy for the American merchant marine were shoved into the current surging toward adjournment of congress by Saturday night.

Whether they would be swept to enactment by the time the weary lawmakers finish work on the vital tax bill and head for home remained in doubt.

The Walsh-Healey bill to make persons who sell goods to the government comply with hour and wage regulations was passed speedily by the house. Previously it had been approved in considerably different form by the senate. The big question was whether the differences between the two chambers could be reconciled without delay.

A similar situation was presented by a compromise ship subsidy plan passed in the senate. It would give the merchant marine in outright subsidy instead of delivering it thru ocean mail contracts as at present. Such a change in the system already had house approval.

Congress was eager to be off to the political wars and leaders agreed it would quit immediately after final action on the tax compromise worked out Thursday by house and senate conferees.

This compromise, going far toward carrying President Roosevelt's suggestion for levies on undistributed corporation income, was in the hands of legislative drafters.

Preoccupied With Politics.

House members' preoccupation with politics was plainly shown. Both Franklin D. Roosevelt and Alf M. Landon were mentioned during the day as "the next president of the United States."

Democrats and republicans applauded vigorously in turn.

FRAZIER WILL OFFER INFLATIONARY BILL

Will Try to Make It Rider to the Guffey Act—Third Party Move.

WASHINGTON. (UP). Fresh attention was directed to a budding third party movement by a proposed last minute maneuver to force a record senate vote on the $3,000,000,000 Frazier-Lemke inflationary farm mortgage measure. The Frazier-Lemke proposal was regarded as a key factor in the third party in which it was indicated the forces of Rev. Charles Coughlin, Dr. Francis E. Townsend and supporters of the farm inflation bill might join.

The plan for the senate vote was put forward by Senator Frazier, (r., N. D.). He said he would offer his bill as a rider to the Guffey coal bill in an effort to put the senate on record.

He denied, however, that there was any direct connection between the third party drive and the move for the last minute senate vote.

By coincidence, however, the drive to put the senate on record came just as announcement of support of a third party candidate by Father Coughlin was being awaited.

Father Coughlin has refused to indicate who this candidate might

BARLOW TO ANSWER CHARGES OF STATE

Supreme Court Holds It Has Power to Punish if Guilty.

In an opinion by Judge Good the supreme court Friday overruled the demurrer of Robert A. Barlow, county judge of Cheyenne county, charged by the attorney general with contempt of court in practicing law without a license, to eight of the ten counts in the information against him, and gave him 20 days in which to plead.

Attorneys for Barlow, admitting for the purposes of the case that each of the charges were true, argued that no offense against the law was stated in any of the counts. The court held that in two cases they were correct. It says that the act of the agent of a bonding company in preparing and executing a bond for his principal, where he merely performs the duties of such agent, does not constitute the practice of law, and neither is one who acts merely as an amanuenses in preparing an assignment of a judgment.

Barlow's attorneys had also contended that the supreme court does not possess inherent power to punish for contempt any person assuming to practice law within the state without having been duly licensed, on the ground that the offense is covered by statute. The court holds that it has such inherent power and that the practice of law by one not duly licensed may be punished as for a contempt of this court notwithstanding such practice may be a criminal offense under the statute.

The opinion says that the legislature has not occupied the field of regulation of practice of law to the exclusion of the court, and that the constitution does not limit its power with reference to admission or disbarment or in fixing qualifications for practitioners. The court had previously held that it is vested with exclusive power to determine qualifications and to disbar, but had never previously passed on whether unauthorized practice may be punished as contempt. It now holds that as a necessary corollary it has ample implied power to protect its functions by punishing those who usurp the privilege of acting as attorneys.

The court says it may do this not to protect itself and its officer but in the interest of the public to prevent it from being exploited and injured by one unlawfully assuming to act as an officer of the court, the status of an attorney. There are many instances, it says, where persons' rights have been jeopardized and sacrificed because of following the advice of unlicensed persons.

The court says that one may be guilty of the practice of law without a license, notwithstanding he receives no fee, and thus defines the practice of law:

Practice of law includes not only "the trial of cases in court and the preparation of pleadings to be filed in court, but also includes drawing, and advising as to the legal effect of, petitions for the probate of wills, drawing of wills, deeds, mortgages and other instruments of like character, where a legal knowledge is required and where counsel and advice are given with respect to the validity and legal effect of such instruments.

LIQUOR FEES STILL HELD

School Apportionment May Be Short $144,090 July 1.

Altho the supreme court has given a decision holding that liquor licenses are a state and not a local license and must therefore go into the temporary school fund of the state and be distributed to support of school districts thruout the state on the statutory basis of one-fourth equally between districts and three-fourths to districts on a basis of school population, such fees may not be included in the semiannual school fund apportionment July 1.

Under a stipulation filed by State Superintendent Taylor, Auditor Ayres and State Treasurer Hall the statute requiring distribution of the liquor license fees in the state treasury may possibly not be included in the July distribution. It was stipulated that liquor money would not be distributed pending the suit or "until final determination thereof." The suit, being an original action in the supreme court, will not be finally disposed of until a motion for rehearing is passed upon. Forty days are allowed by law for filing this motion, and on occasion the court has allowed the filing of a second motion. If the stipulation is binding and the case cannot be finally determined immediately State Superintendent Taylor said he would ask the state treasurer to certify to him for distribution the total in the school fund, which is now $540,000, less $144,090.50 of liquor license money, and he will distribute the amount so certified July 1 and distribute the liquor license fees later. Jan. 1 the liquor license money was distributed with other school funds to school districts of the state.

F. R. MULLEN MOVED TO OMAHA BY BURLINGTON

Promoted to General Manager of Lines West—Thiehoff Is Retired.

BROOKFIELD, Mo. (AP). W. F. Thiehoff, general manager of the Burlington railroad eastern lines, announced his retirement July 1 at the annual picnic here Friday for Burlington veterans.

Thiehoff, guest of honor and principal speaker, started his railroad career in Brookfield 52 years ago as a section hand. Later he was a telegrapher and brakeman. Recently he was chairman of the association of railway executives. He was born at Hunnewell, Mo., and will be 70 years old June 25.

Thiehoff also announced J. H. Aydelott, now general manager of the western lines at Omaha, was promoted to general manager of the eastern lines at Chicago. F. R. Mullen of Lincoln, Neb., has been promoted to general manager at Omaha. W. R. Eble, assistant superintendent at Brookfield, has been promoted to superintendent of the Illinois lines at Galesburg and J. E. Thiehoff, Sterling, Colo., takes Eble's place here.

PROTESTS IMPORTING OF SOCIAL WORKERS

Havekost Says Understood All Along This Should Be State's Business.

HOOPER, Neb. (AP). State Representative John Havekost of Hooper, democratic nominee for congress in the Third district, protested a ruling of the federal social security board that unless certain trained relief workers were hired, Nebraska's allotments would be withheld.

"Such an edict is contrary to the letter and spirit of the social security laws passed by the special session of the Nebraska legislature in 1935," Havekost asserted.

"After discussing the social security bills from all angles, the legislature decided that the administration should be strictly governed by a state board or assistance committee, and that the county board of supervisors or commissioners, whichever the case may be, shall have the county administration without federal interference.

"In all the discussion there was an emphatic expression against what was termed carpetbag interference. The Nebraska legislature said very plainly in all the social security acts, that the home people would know their own conditions better than the theoretical trained welfare workers that come from other states, possibly from Alabama or Georgia, where conditions are vastly different than in Nebraska.

"If there are any states' rights left, this should by all means be considered as a right of the state, because the security laws were enacted according to the federal security setup and approved by the federal administration."

County commissioners Friday received a copy of a communication sent by the Dodge county commissioners to Gov. Cochran and the state assistance committee protesting against the ultimatum of E. F. Witte, consultant of the federal social security board that counties will be denied federal aid unless such counties appoint trained social welfare workers. County Commissioner Mitchell said he favored backing up the Dodge county commissioners. County Commissioner Johnson claims that the federal law covering welfare work does not provide for trained workers and also said that Senator Norris was instrumental in getting such a provision eliminated from the law.

LINCOLN PRODUCTS ARE GIVEN PRAISE

Prominent Citizens Testify as to Quality of Local Manufactures.

Lincoln manufacturers are receiving complimentary letters from numerous citizens, praising the quality of their products and also their campaign to popularize the importance of Lincoln payrolls and the importance of patronizing home industries.

T. B. Strain, president of the chamber of commerce, writes "This is a reciprocal movement, everyone who gets behind it will benefit directly or indirectly, and therefore, without hesitation, we urge the Lincoln buying public to join whole heartedly; give preference in their purchases to Lincoln products, second to goods not manufactured in Lincoln but wholesaled thru local jobbers, and third, to Lincoln retailers, all of whom have served the public so efficiently."

Traces Course.

"Your 'Lincoln Made Dollars' campaign," writes R. V. Koupal, secretary of the Federation of Nebraska Retailers, "is certainly creating quite a stir of interest thruout the city, and most justifiably so . . . Let me compliment you on this activity. I am sure it will close with everyone here having a keener appreciation that buying Lincoln made goods means money back to them, as well as the other Nebraskans these dollars ultimately reach in their travels."

Nathan Gold writes to Secretary Zumwinkel "I am strongly in favor of spending money with home folks. It is the quickest way to increase prosperity in our own locality . . . We indeed appreciate the work the association is doing, and you can count on our complete co-operation."

Max Meyer, of the Nebraska Credit company, writes, "No city can be built except by unified and continuous co-operative effort. Promotion of manufacturing in Lincoln provides a new source of income which is inevitably used in making Lincoln a better city."

Mr. Zumwinkel pronounced himself and the association well pleased with the acceptance of the campaign.

VANDENBERG TO NEBRASKA

WASHINGTON. (AP). Senator Vandenberg, Michigan republican, said his speaking itinerary for the republican campaign was incomplete, but it included tours in behalf of senatorial candidates in New Jersey and Nebraska.

Vandenberg was expected to be active in the campaign for Gov. Landon of Kansas, republican nominee for president, and his running mate, Col. Frank Knox of Chicago. He said he had received no word as yet from Landon headquarters in Topeka, and thought it was too early for campaign plans ot be completed.

Vandenberg also was expected to do considerable campaigning for the party in Michigan, where his senate colleague, James Couzens, Detroit republican, faces primary opposition from former Governor Wilber M. Bruckner.

"Dedicated to the people of Nebraska and to the development of the resources of the state"—Sept 7, 1867

"There is no place like Nebraska"

Gov Landon has headed for a Colorado resort, Knox strikes out for New Hampshire, thus the republicans launch their drive for the presidency. The republican standard bearers are resting in preparation for an intensive and extended campaign.

The democrats are moving in on Philadelphia. There is no question as to who will be nominated and the administration will probably draft the platform, but the democrats are moving in regardless There are certain formalities to be gone thru and the nomination of a candidate and the drafting of a platform are among them.

The "stop Landon" movement failed at Cleveland. Chairman Farley has now taken up that fight and has been defeated in the first skirmish. John Hamilton simply refused to make the campaign one of personalities. Hamilton, who knows Landon better than almost anyone else, is convinced that the governor's personality will stand-up under any test.

Robert H. Ickes, son of the secretary of the interior and head of PWA, is employed as a clerk on a PWA project, much to the annoyance of unemployed heads of families who feel that the money could be better invested. The objectors are a bit unreasonable in their opposition to young Ickes. What do they expect him to do, go to the WPA for work?

The English have evidence which indicates to them that outside money was invested in the recent Arab riots in Palestine The money was sent there to finance the revolt of the Arabs, not because the donators of the money thought the Arabs should be free to rule again, but because the riots would embarrass England While the English hesitate to name the source of the money, anyone acquainted with the situation needs but a single guess

Parts of the vast Russian territory are to be in total darkness a portion of Friday as the result of a total eclipse of the sun. Scientists have determined the path of the eclipse, have made preparations for it The government too has made preparations Peasants living in the eclipse zone have been forewarned It is hoped that a panic will be avoided as the sun disappears it the people have been told exactly what will happen.

The ban on gambling has been lifted in Lower California and Quintana Roo, Mexican territories The ban has been in effect for some time, since the inauguration of the present president of Mexico, but the pressure was too much for him With people from the United States anxious to leave their money at race tracks and in lotteries and gambling halls in Mexico the ban seemed a bit severe to home folks By lifting it this flood of United States money will again be turned loose in parts of Mexico

Reared in the wealthy Roosevelt aristocracy a resident of the white house for at least a time as a young girl resident of the mansion at Krum Elbow, wife of an assistant secretary of the navy, governor of New York and president once more a resident of the white house Mrs Roosevelt poses as an expert on kitchens and surveying the housing laboratory at Purdue criticized one kitchen as 'badly planned The first lady may have inspected many well planned kitchens in her day, but it is doubtful if she had any actual experience in any of them The aristocracy of the Roosevelt family is traditional While not wealthy in comparison with the Morgans Astors, Mellons and others they have always enjoyed sizable incomes Mrs Roosevelt was teaching in Todhunter school instead of working in her own kitchen when the family lived a private life in New York At no time has it been necessary for her to do her own work The Purdue faculty and students probably are as well qualified to plan small houses to fit the needs of small families with modest incomes as is the president's wife

ADDITIONAL TAXES.

Nearly a billion more taxes for the coming year are contained in the bill as agreed upon by the senate and house conferees The administration needs more than that to bring its budget into balance, but an effort toward that desirable end was vitally necessary In the beginning the president demanded a bill that would tax heavily the undivided surpluses of companies The object sought was that of forcing this money into the hands of stockholders in the form of dividends where it might be pounced upon for additional income taxes paid by the individual.

The senate refused to accept this theory of taxation after the best economic advice, supplemented by warnings from business leaders, was that it was a dangerous experiment Members were shown that if it had not been for the large surpluses laid up in the past by the large employers of labor there would not have been available during the depression as many jobs as was the case, and figures were cited to show that in order to keep men on their payrolls a total of several billion dollars was taken out of surplus and expended at a time when many of these large enterprises were operating at a loss.

The administration declined to yield, but the senate took the bit in its own hands and rewrote the bill after much travail To placate the president they inserted a provision that would remove corporation dividends from individual tax exemption. This means that whereas in the past the smaller income taxpayers were allowed to deduct dividends they received on corporation stock because the corporation, which is owned by the stockholders, had already paid a substantial income tax, they will now be required to pay a tax of 4 percent on those dividends. That is to say, if a person receives $1,000 in dividends yearly he will be taxed $40 a year thereon where previously he had paid nothing.

As the bill emerges from conference this 4 percent individual tax is retained, and the president has also been able to secure the reinsertion of a provision as to undistributed earnings with a range of taxation running from 7 to 27 percent. This is in addition to a graduated levy of 8 to 15 percent on corporation earnings before dividends are declared. The capital stock and excess profits taxes are also retained.

The house is expected to accept the report of the conference committee, as it gets most of its old bill retained A battle is expected in the senate, which gets little out of the conference agreement, but because of the pressure to adjourn it is very likely to bow in acquiescence.

PRICE-FIXING.

Inasmuch as individuals think of themselves first as consumers when they are in the act of making purchases, there is an instinctive feeling against any system of price fixing Experience during the war did not tend to allay that feeling on the contrary, the failure of the program intensified it It was one of the strong objections to NRA operations Therefore, it is not without amazement that the average man faces the fact that congress is seriously considering a proposal to set up by legislative enactment the machinery for price fixing in the main coal industry It may be true that conditions in the industry are deplorable that there is little or no profit in operation and that the miners do not over a year of part time work, make a proper wage The question is does this justify government intervention to the point where the board that fixes the prices for consumers is made up in part of representatives of operators and miners'

In view of the fact that similar conditions exist in a number of industries and that each of these may be able to assemble proof of the need of price fixing the question becomes of major importance It is little wonder that liberal democrats like Senator Wheeler who sees in this the beginning of the end to the competitive system rise to oppose it as a radical change in the form of our government which would be forced into a system of regimentation that would not only be onerous but might well be inefficient He adds 'Certainly the greatest totalitarian, bureaucratic state the world has ever seen would be the result'

Price-fixing, to aid anyone must be so scaled as to afford profit to producers and it is one of the elementary rules of economics and a matter of common observation that fixed prices means higher prices than result from free competition As the senator points out it creates and fosters the very things which make depressions destruction of the balance between production and consuming power with purchasing power decreased It would benefit the coal miners but it would decrease the power to purchase coal on the part of consumers unless they happened to be in an industry which is given like favors. As there is a large element of the population which cannot come within similar operation of the system, grave injustices follow. It lessens their purchasing power and subjects them to living under a permanent system of high price levels.

REFORMING PROCEDURE.

Much is heard about the intention of the democrats to abandon the two-thirds rule for presidential nominations in its conventions Such a plan was considered four years ago at Chicago and abandoned, because it might have given Roosevelt an advantage over the "Stop Roosevelt" brigade. He was in sight of a majority, and holding to the two-thirds rule in a measure equalized the effect of the unit rule, by which a majority of a state delegation could vote the delegation solidly for any man or measure. It made it necessary for the Roosevelt forces to get more votes to win. That was finally accomplished at Chicago thru the Garner-McAdoo deal, by which Texas and California swung into line solidly Even that might not have worked so effectively if the unit rule had not been in force. The unit rule destroys the right of delegates to individual action.

Now much is heard in preconvention talk about abolishing the two-thirds rule but nothing about abandoning the unit rule. Of the two most people would choose the two-thirds majority as being less objectionable. There may be some defense for the unit rule where applied only to instructed delegates, forcing them to follow instructions. In a fight where instructions have been followed so far as reasonably could be demanded, and the delegation changes to other candidates, the rule stands out as dictatorial—undemocratic.

Thru the use of the unit rule a minority of a convention can force the nomination of a candidate. New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois and a few other states might be nearly evenly divided as to choice, but applying the unit rule would force all the votes from those states to a candidate not desired by a majority of the entire convention. Democracy might well abandon both rules, but the bosses may be expected to retain the unit rule so long as there is no great popular protest It serves the bosses too well to be abandoned.

They may abandon the two-thirds rule now because it can have no effect on the coming nomination. They will fight the loss of the unit rule because that would curtail the power of the bosses

FOOTNOTES.

If the Schechter brothers and the supreme court had not intervened, the NRA would in all likelihood be celebrating its third anniversary, says the Baltimore Sun Fate and the constitution were against it however and so the natal day is being observed by the public works administration alone for the PWA is the sole survivor of that grand recovery plan.

It will be remembered that recovery was to be promoted by two separate but co-ordinated forces The NRA was to supply the motive power for one the PWA for the other. Under the NRA business was to be given a chance to supervise itself, rid itself of chiselers and eliminate other influences considered detrimental to sound and substantial economic progress Hours of labor were to be regulated with a view to distributig available employment more broadly and evenly Minimum wages were to be established to bolster up and increase purchasing power Prices were to be held in check to the same end

At the same time the public works administration was set up and given an appropriation of 33 millions as a starter With this fund it was to prime the pump and with the pump in operation again it was to be the NRA's task to keep it running smoothly That was the original idea But the PWA worked ponderously and slowly Moreover amid the ballyhoo and enthusiasm that attended the launching of the NRA it was soon lost sight of The blue eagle quickly became the darling of the new deal In this symbol of co-ordination and regimentation was centered the main effort to promote recovery tho the NRA being based on the principle of restricting rather than expanding production activity could not possibly have attained that goal

Several other agencies were set up under the recovery act One of these was the petroleum administration, which was deprived of its legal status by the decision of the supreme court in the 'hot oil' case The national labor relations board, the industrial planning and research agency and other bodies of which little was heard went into limbo along with the NRA as a result of the Schechter decision Only the PWA was to stand the test of time and the courts Even tho it had become a stepchild of the new deal, having been passed over in favor of the FERA CWA and WPA as a pump primer it was to adhere doggedly to its appointed course if not its original purpose Today it is not only the sole survivor of the industrial recovery act but also one of the few of the several score emergency agencies that have come thru the last three years practically unscathed Small wonder that Mr Ickes the public works administrator considers it an occasion for rejoicing

MORE OR LESS PERSONAL.

Two important decisions were handed down by the supreme court Friday. In one it holds that it has the power to punish for contempt any person who assumes to practice law without a license from it, and defines just what the practice of law is with a minuteness that may well be absorbed by a number of persons who assume offhand to advise others about their legal rights. This is about as common a practice as is giving medical advice, but it appears to carry more threat of punishment. It is not likely that individuals who occasionally indulge in giving legal counsel will be sought out, but the court suggests that accepting such uninformed advice is likely to be costly where real rights are involved.

The other decision disposes of a much disputed question. Under former liquor laws the school district in which individuals were licensed to make sales got the benefit of the license fees, then collected locally The court finds that while the liquor control act was bunglesomely drawn, it was made clear that the legislature sought to set up state control, and therefore, that the license fees collected by the state body should go into the state temporary school fund to be distributed by the state superintendent as are other moneys that go into that fund This means that school districts in which are located the most licensees will have to divide the money collected from them with all other districts

That the democratic national committee organization is not overlooking anything can be testified to by Postmaster Frank Bartling of Nebraska City Someone from New York headquarters called him up and wanted to know if he were a democrat. He said he was not, but upon request furnished the name of Frank Marnell as a representative member Mr Bartling is still wondering what connection with a request for his political affiliations was the further question as to whether he had received any campaign literature from the democratic committee, but he thinks he can make a good guess.

The legislature passed a law several years ago reducing salaries of the higher-paid state officers. The court held that the job was not done in a constitutional way. About the same time the county board at Kearney met and resolved that there were not 25,000 persons resident in that county and adopted a lower scale of salaries for persons holding county offices, the salary scale being fixed by the legislature on a population basis. After the officers finished their terms they began suit for the difference, and the district court has given judgment for a total of about $12,000. Lawyers say that there are no constitutional obstacles to reducing salaries, but legislators and county boards cannot do it by short cuts.

Nebraska editors are tossing their bouquets this week at J. C. Voline, who is celebrating his 25th anniversary as publisher of the Nemaha County Herald. Mr. Voline landed in Auburn 36 years ago as a printer at a time when the Herald was one of four newspapers there After it passed thru several hands, Mr Voline stepped out of the composing room to become its owner Thru a series of consolidations over the intervening years only one newspaper, the Herald, remains at Auburn The Herald has long been regarded as a model newspaper in its field, owns its own building and bears every mark of prosperity as well as being well edited.

With no poison bait or money to buy it with coming from Washington, county agricultural agents in the sections where grasshopper infestation is heaviest have organized community eradication campaigns, and are buying and mixing their own bait Ten days ago only a third of the counties in the state were hosts to the hoppers, today the pests are to be found in half of them, with 12 counties reporting conditions serious The insects thrive on dry weather, and where an organized battle against them has not been waged they threaten heavy losses to growing crops Bindweed is menacing some sections and the agricultural college is sending out agronomists to organize control measures

MEN AND THINGS.

Is it possible that Secretary Wallace is losing his amateur standing as an economist which won him so much renown. Commenting on what he says are contradictions in the republican platform he says, "You can't have increased exports, reduced imports and collect foreign debts" Now that may all be true, but the secretary forgets that this is an age of experiments and that he is living right in the middle of affairs where equally contradictory policies are attempted. He forgets the new deal slogan "If this doesn't work we'll try something else. It doesn't cost us anything."

Thirty or forty astronomers hiked all the way to Russia to catch the eclipse of the sun. We are informed that they went to all this trouble and expense in order to add to their store of knowledge as to the way the physical world behaves. As adding to our individual store of knowledge is one of the most pleasant tasks falling to the lot of most men, one perhaps should not repine, but there should not be any objection to asking if they are going to agree on what they find out.

It is announced that Williams, TFA, is making speeches on TVA It seems that one ought to be able to get a wheeze out of such an unusual event, if only to wonder why he talks on TVA when he knows TFA so much better. It has not been so many years ago that it was considered a serious offense against good manners and the welfare of the individual to insist on his taking the drink proffered him at a social affair Now we read that it is a serious offense against etiquet to refuse to take it Some people say times change for the better.

Complaint is heard from democrats who charge that the republican national convention repudiated Alexander Hamilton and adopted the principles of Thomas Jefferson, which the administration tossed in the junk-heap some years ago Which reminds the man at the next desk of the chap who complained to his dinner-mate that the latter had taken to himself the largest of the two fish served He replied by demanding to know what his companion would have done, and after he had carefully explained that if he had been serving he would have taken the smaller one "Well, what are you kicking about?" was the response 'Ain't that what you got"

Gilbert K Chesterton, English author who died suddenly the other day, had a gift of style that was the envy and despair of other writers He particularly delighted in the use of the paradox, rhetorical turn that enables one to produce surprising results in a single sentence that is a contradiction in itself The best epigrams are couched in the twist of the paradox and Chesterton brought it to a perfection that produced in the reader somewhat the sensation of whipped cream on a dish of strawberries

DR. BRADY'S HEALTH TALK.

What Anemia Means.

Nine times out of ten anemia is a secondary symptom, a more or less marked feature of some illness or disturbance of health, as is weakness or constant ache or pain somewhere It is therefore as foolish to take a remedy which purports to be good for anemia as it would be to take a "tonic" for weakness or a pain killer to benumb the sense of ache, pain or fatigue, if you neglect to search out and treat the illness or disturbance of health which causes the anemia or the pain Yet millions of misguided folk who imagine or know they are anemic "try" first one remedy and then another in the futile expectation of regaining health Might as well try to get a drink of water from a sieve

The more familiar manifestations of anemia are pallor of skin and mucous membranes, low endurance, tendency to tire easily, headache, dizziness or faintness shortness of breath on slight exertion, palpitation, poor appetite, in women scanty or irregular function.

If loss of weight is noticeable with the signs of anemia, that is a signal to look well to the lungs, for tuberculosis sometimes begins in that way.

Among the common causes of anemia which are too often overlooked or ignored while the patient fools with "blood tonics:"

Frequent slight bleeding, either external or internal and undetected (as in peptic ulcer and internal hemorrhoids)

Chronic poisoning by carbon monoxide, lead, mercury, or by acetanilide aspirin and other coaltar derivatives taken to benumb sense of pain, fatigue, worry, etc

In southern sections hookworm infestation

Masked or long neglected infections, especially focal or septic infections where the blood-corpuscle destroying streptococcus is harbored

The early stage of pulmonary tuberculosis or of cancer or the second or third stage of syphilis

That should be sufficient to show how much room there is for guesswork if you don't care enough about your health and life to have proper medical attention. . . . I often think how true it is that what you don't know will never worry you when you're dead. To get the greatest joy out of a package of certified iron you must be less than ten years old mentally.

equalized railroad property at 75 percent of full value. The Union Pacific road has protested against its assessment many times but has never contested the mater in court as some other roads have.

Dr. A. A. Reed, director of the University of Nebraska extension division, has been invited by L. R. Alderman, director of the education division of the WPA, to attend a training institute at Iowa State college, Ames, June 22 to July 4. The federal education division is conducting the institute for state directors and supervisors in the emergency education program. He expects to attend both the Ames conference and the Nebraska conference on supervised correspondence study.

The supreme court Friday affirmed the action of the district court of Polk county in denying a new trial to Joe Killian and others in a controversy with Kent & Burke company. The plaintiffs had originally asked for cancellation of a deed to lands in Polk and Merrick counties to defendants, claiming they had not knowingly executed it, that the notary was incompetent to act, and that it was their homestead. From a decision for defendant the plaintiffs did not appeal, but later brought an action to set aside the judgment on the ground of perjured testimony. The supreme court says that practically the same testimony was offered as in the original trial, and that it is not convincing.

COCHRAN ASKS FOR FUNDS

Seeks Money From Congress of Republican Valley.

McCOOK, Neb. (AP). Gov. Cochran, State Engineer Tilley and J. M. Willis, president of the McCook chamber of commerce, appealed by telegraph to Nebraska congressmen to seek a federal appropriation for flood control in the Republican river valley of Nebraska and Kansas.

The telegraph was dispatched after a conference between the state and local officials here and after an inspection of flood rehabiliation work in the valley by Cochran and Tilley. Addressed to Senators Norris and Burke and Representative C. G. Binderup, the message read:

"Considering the fact that many disastrous floods have occurred in recent years in the Republican river valley in Nebraska and Kansas, and that army engineers have made surveys and reported favorably upon proposed impounding flood waters in the Arickaree and south fork of the Republican river for flood control, we want to impress upon the importance of this being done and urge you to make a desperate effort to secure appropriation of federal funds for that purpose."

Cochran and Tilley left for Lincoln Friday.

ECLIPSE IS STUDIED IN FOREIGN NATIONS

Moscow, Tokyo, Athens and Istanbul Report the Phenomenon.

MOSCOW. (AP). Instruments of scientists held secrets of the sun Friday after a brief eclipse which threw a shadow from the Mediterranean to the Sea of Japan. The results, when tabulated and coordinated, may add materially to man's knowledge in several important scientific fields.

Racing across the soviet union at 2,000 miles an hour, the phenomenon obliterated the sun long enough at various points in the 50 mile wide totality zone to allow many expeditions to make observations.

Some took pictures, others made spectographic studies, radio tests occupied still others and members of several expeditions sought new evidence in support of the Einstein theory.

The total eclipse became visible over Russian territory at Tuapse, at 6:58 a. m., Moscow time (10:58 p. m., eastern standard time, Thursday).

The last of the lengthy shadow was observed at Khabarovsk at 9:07 a. m., (1:07 a. m., eastern standard time Friday). Then it passed out over the Sea of Japan.

The majority of the 40 expeditions in the field were favored with bright weather to allow successful observations but others saw effort and expense in vain as rain and clouds shut off visibility.

The party at Kustanai, sponsored by Georgetown university and the National Geographic society, was prevented from carrying out its plans by inclement weather.

Other expeditions at Ak-Bulak, sponsored by Harvard university-Massachusetts Institute of Technology and the soviet government, made complete ground observations supplemented by further research from above the clouds.

TOKYO. (AP). First reports indicated Friday clouds at Kamishari had spoiled a British expedition's observations of the solar eclipse.

Other stations, including one at Momanbetsu, reported good results. Josef J. Johnson, an American, made observations at Memanbetsu with scientists from the Tokyo astronomical observatory.

ISTANBUL, Turkey. (AP). Superstitious Turkey refrained for the first time from shooting at darkening skies during the solar eclipse. For years Turks believed during an eclipse the sun was being devoured by a dragon and discharged firearms to frighten the beast away.

FRANCE DECIDES TO ABOLISH SANCTIONS

To Follow Britain's Policy in Advocating Their End

PARIS (UP) France joined Great Britain in a new policy when the cabinet agreed to follow London's example and advocate abolition of league sanctions against Italy.

The government accepted the proposal to raise sanctions after a report on foreign affairs by Yves Delbos, foreign minister and after studying British Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's house of commons speech in which he advocated an Anglo-Franco-German understanding to secure European peace.

The French delegation to the league council June 26 and the June 30 extraordinary assembly will be instructed to vote for appointment of a committee to effect termination of the economic siege against Italy. The league voted anti-Italian sanctions last October when Italy was declared an aggressor nation after black shirt troops poured across the Mareb river to what proved to be the speedy conquest of Emperor Haile Selassie's ancient realm.

YOUR PROBLEMS
By Mary Gordon

Dear Mary Gordon: I was much interested in the letter by Nebraska Bachelor and I am glad to know there are yet some who still cling and are striving to reach the goal to higher ideals which are the means of making our homes what they really should be and not contrary to the ones we so often see. Your ideas, or dreams, of what home and happiness should are also ideal in what goes in making a happy home, and here's hoping your dreams come true.

Like you I have often wondered, about the old friends whose names so often in the past appeared in this column. Did they find that which they were seeking or just dropped out of the race?

If such be the case, why not take a new start? There may yet be some who are worth having, just around the corner.. What say you?

Also, I can imagine Nebraska Bachelor, how interesting and the enjoyment you derived from your correspondent club. Because of the fact I found your letter interesting, and hope some day I may come to know one with these same high ideals. Am sending my address with self assurance that I may hear from you.—Just Another Nebraskan.

Dear Mary Gordon: Could you please help me? I have spilled quite a bit of "deodorant" on my crepe dress and it seems to have taken the color out. Do you know anything I could do to bring back the original color? —A. E. M.

A. The deodorant you mention is so powerful that I'm doubtful anything can be done to restore the color. Perhaps you could dip the whole dress in dye. Of course it would be safer to have it done by an expert.

Discard Stale Spices In Annual Inventory.

If you feel that you are not getting the best results in tastiness from your spices, suppose you give your little cans the aroma test. Open the covers. Unless a full-bodied fragrance gushes out to titillate your nostrils, you probably have been "aging" your spice—and spices are among the products that do not improve with age.

It may sound like extravagance, but it is common sense to throw out and replace with a new batch all spices that have lost their bouquet and aroma. Spices depend upon their delicate volatile oils to impart flavor; and in ground spices these gradually evaporate over a period of time just as perfume loses its strength when the stopper is left off, as flowers lose their scent when their freshness has gone.

SEIZE RUNAWAY TRAWLER

British Steamship Believed to Capture Girl Pat.

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana. (AP). The government S. S. Pomeroon Friday forcibly captured a vessel believed to be the runaway British trawler Girl Pat. The vessel taken had been hovering outside the three mile limit for several days.

Excitement ran high on shore, for officials said the mysterious boat's crew had threatened to fire on a police boat off the Demerara river mouth. Police officials reported the craft answered descriptions of the Girl Pat whose crew ran away with her from Grimsby, Eng., early in April, presumably on a search for pirate treasure. The trawler's owner filed barratry charges against the crew.

JANNEY WANTS DECREE.

NEW YORK. (AP). The Daily News said Friday Leon Janney, 21 year old stage and screen actor, has gone by plane to Reno to sue his showgirl bride of less than three months, Jessica Pepper, for divorce. The paper said a suit for separation, $200 weekly alimony and $1,500 counsel fees, filed last week in supreme court by the former Follies girl had been withdrawn before Janney took off Thursday.

SALT REPAIRS HIGHWAYS

Works on Clay-Sand-Gravel Mixtures.

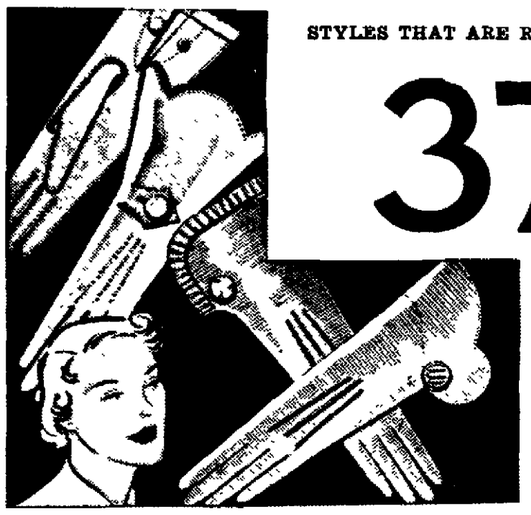

ITHACA, N. Y. (AP). Common salt when used in surfacing automobile roads made of a clay-sand-gravel mixture converts its grains into countless tiny robot workmen who labor incessantly at road repairs. The discovery of this surprising way in which the salt particles move up and down in the road to keep it moist, smooth, tough and dense was made public at Cornell university during the celebration of the semicentennial of Sigma Xi, honorary scientific society. The salt particles convert a mass of clay, sand gravel into a surface as hard as Macadam.

So you can see for yourself that here at last is a far better way to personal cleanliness.

Leaves No After-Smell!

You see, after a bath you want to be clean, feel clean, and smell clean. You don't want to carry with you the odor of a strong smelling soap that can't keep a secret. Besides, it isn't the smell of a soap that gets you clean—it's the lather. Now ordinary toilet soaps don't lather freely enough in this hard water. In fact, they often make only a sticky soap curd that works down into your pores and dams up stale perspiration (usually the cause of the odor) instead of removing it. But Kirk's Coco Hardwater Castile, a 100% pure vegetable oil soap, makes oceans of lather—even in hard, cold water. Hence it always goes deep down into the pores. Mixes with the stale perspiration curds, sets them free. So quick as a flash your body is as fresh and clean-smelling as a woodland breeze!

LARGEST SUM POURED INTO TRADE CHANNELS

Effect of Bonus Spending on Business Like Dose of Inflation.

BY DAVID LAWRENCE.

WASHINGTON. (Copyright). The most amazing phenomenon of the depression is now going on. At no time since government spending or "priming of the pump" started has so much money been poured into the channels of trade within such a brief period.

There have been sums like a billion dollars spent in three or four months, but never has a total of $2,000,000,000 been suddenly injected into the economic system in what is likely to be a 30 to 60 day interval.

Such rapid spending of the soldier bonus money may have farreaching effects, politically and economically.

First of all, the effect to stimulating a demand for goods and services is to send prices upward. For whenever there is a scarcity there is a tendency to regard the demand as warranting a price increase.

Then there is the possibility that a shortage of products to meet the demand in any given line will result in a feverish desire to produce more goods and stock up. Where businesses misconstrue the temporary demand as a permanent pickup, there is the danger of piling up inventories and then running face to face with a fall slump.

Fortunately, most of the retail businesses of the country are accustomed to spurts in spending and buy carefully nevertheless. They know, for instance, how to prepare for a Christmas season. As some retail experts see it, the bonus spending is like a second Christmas for the year 1936, and they will be guided accordingly.

To Go For House Furnishings.

What is difficult to measure, on the other hand, is the velocity of the transactions that will be set in motion by the bonus spending. Estimates based on the way the $1,000,000,000 bonus loan was spent in 1931 led to the belief now that much of the money will be spent for what are known as consumer goods—household necessities and clothing. Much of it, too, will go for household furnishings and remodelling of homes—refrigerators, gas and oil furnaces, an extra bath tub or a new bathroom, a new radio, or the purchase of an auto. The unmeasurable items, however, are those which will go to pay off debt, to pay off an insurance loan or to help toward the taking out of a new policy, or for investment in real estate.

Then there will be immediate luxuries, such as travel and vacation amusements, which will absorb the bonus in many instances.

From an economic standpoint, any such sum as $2,000,000,000 is bound to create an abnormal demand, and, unless carefully watched, may produce an abnormal decline when the bonus money has been spent.

The money that goes to pay off debt will find itself in the banks, ultimately swelling existing reserves and making money for investment even more plentiful than it has been. Uncle Sam will get a good bit of the bonus money back thru taxation of the enterprises that make substantial profits this year on account of the bonus trade.

The important factor is what will happen when the bonus market tapers off, in those industries where increased demand for products causes new employes to be taken on, there may be, in the autumn, a curtailment. The immediate effects of a $2,000,000,000 expenditure undoubtedly are stimulating to trade, but, from a political angle this year, it is a big question how long the benefits will last. Will they extend beyond the election or will the reaction downward begin in October or just before the presidential election? This is the query that is puzzling the political folks hereabouts.

Like Dose of Inflation.

In a sense, the spending of the $2,000,000,000 is like a dose of inflation. The glow of health and prosperity is deceptive and the temptation is to renew the dose at the earliest moment. Probably the best thing that could happen to the country would be for the veterans to take their time about spending their money so that the stimulus would be spread over a longer period of time, indeed so that the spending would not outrun the pace of recovery itself. But the desire for things which the veterans and their families have been looking forward to acquiring for many months probably will govern in the majority of the cases.

The democrats are rather glad the bonus came at this time, for they think its benefits will be felt by business and in increased employment and that the psychological factor will help their cause in the election. From the opposite standpoint, the sudden increase in the public debt figures to an all-time high in the history of the United States gives the republicans a powerful argument in favor of cutting expenses, which is their chief campaign issue.

Apart from the politics of it, however, the economists will be observing minutely what happens to an economic system when $2,000,000,000 is suddenly granted by gift of the government to a million or more citizens. Two billion dollars is hard to visualize, but it is more than all wages and salaries paid by the railroads in 1935.

It is more than all the wages paid on relief work projects in 1935.

It is more than all federal payrolls in 1935, even including the military and naval services.

It is approximately equal to the total wages and salaries of all persons engaged in the wholesale trade in the United States. It is equal to about one-fifth of all the wages received in manufacturing in a single year.

Men of Mystic Fellowship Facing the World Crisis

The Sunday school lesson for June 19 is the Risen Christ.—Luke 24:36-53.

By William T. Ellis.

One night, nineteen hundred years ago, something was started amongst a little group of Jews, gathered secretly in an upper room in old Jerusalem, which may have a greater effect upon today's world crisis than all the deliberations of parliaments and congresses and League of Nations assemblies and economic conferences that fill the day's newspapers.

This was a sensational and historic meeting. It had not been planned, and its outcome was certainly unexpected. Those present were the survivors of the mystic fellowship of followers of Jesus of Nazareth. But now He had been three days dead. It was the evening of Easter day, and despite sensational reports of an empty tomb and a risen Jesus, the little band of comrades had come to the end of their old life.

Their hopes and plans had died with their Leader. Henceforth there was nothing for them but to return to the treadmill routine of their old occupations. They had gathered that evening, a sorrowing and bewildered and defeated group, perhaps for the last time, in the room of sacred memories. They were discussing Peter's report of his having seen the Lord; and two disciples, hastening breathless back from Emmaus, had an amazing tale of their walk and talk with the risen Jesus. In deep excitement, the news was being discussed.

A Leader for the Greatest Task.

Suddenly, startlingly, incredibly—in spite of locked doors and thick walls—Jesus Himself stood in the midst of His friends, greeting them with the familiar salutation, "peace be with you!"

Were they seeing a ghost? The alarmed and excited group were soon calmed by the familiar tones that they had heard so often, as the Master said, "see my hands and my feet—it is My very self. Feel Me and see, for a spirit has not flesh and bones, as you see I have. . . . Have you any food here?" They gave Him a piece of roasted fish, and He took it and ate it in their presence.

Thus was the tremendous reality of the resurrection once more certified. Jesus, the world's crucified savior and leader, had risen from the grave and returned to His friends, with plans for a new order of human life.

For the second time in all history, a fresh start was to be given to the race. This practical aspect of Christ's victory over death has commonly been obscured by eschatological considerations. Actually, here was a new Leader to the world's greatest task; the task that has become so acute in our own day.

The Only Way Out.

Like every other honest man concerned for his own times, if I thought that Hitler, or Mussolini, or Stalin had the master word for a new order of civilization, I would devote my life to echoing that word. But I know that the secret of a remade human society rests only with the crucified and risen Christ;; therefore, by pen and tongue, I proclaim the revolutionary truth, that penitent and pardoned peoples, aglow with divinely bequeathed power of the risen Lord, can give us the new manner of life for which we are all hungering. Changed conditions are the consequence of changed lives.

All practical hope for a made over society is based upon the resurrection truth. That truth is associated with a commissioned discipleship. The friends of Christ were charged, by their Master's final instruction, to be witnesses to the new life changing program. His presence and power were promised them for the fulfillment of this supreme enterprise.

Slowly, But Sourely.

When we consider the vastness of the task involved, and the tremendous work of preparation to be done, by the passage of time, by the improvement of world communications and by the self realization of Christianity, we may partly understand the slowness (nineteen hundred years of Christian activity already gone!) that has marked the accomplishment of the mission entrusted to those upper room disciples and their successors. Yet the commission still holds good, and is being carried out. The work of world evangelization at this moment under way is one of the wonders of our time.

In plain speech, the truth of the resurrection of Jesus, with its clear implications, is the chief social force operating in our time. Deep in the personalities of human beings the religious consciousness is being stirred. High and low—most mostly plain people—are nowadays asking themselves whether Christianity is not the solution of our time's puzzle. The sufficient answer to our every question is just—God.

When Will the "Break" Come.

From all quarters of earth come evidences that this spiritual basis for the great change is understood. Statesmen and economists, scientists and business men, editors and teachers, all are proclaiming that a revival of religion is indispensable to a better world order. Myriads of devout souls are praying for and expecting a fresh manifestation of spiritual power—a fulfillment of Christ's resurrection promise. Signs are not wanting of a deep flowing spiritual tide amidst the nations.

Only a stupid person could fail to be impressed by the millions of worshippers, in all parts of this western world, who arose before daybreak to attend sunrise services last Easter. In Ollerup, Denmark, where the Oxford group movement held an Easter rally, sixty thousand persons gathered. The chief of police said that, for the first time in 36 years, there was no one in the jail!

We are wondering where and when the "break" will come that will spread in a life changing flood over the land. Will some new prophet arise with evangelism's resurrection message?. Will a new editorial or book grip the hearts of the people? Will a tidal movement of prayer and witness bearing arise and sweep the world? Will the old church be shaken into newness of power? Will Jesus Himself return to earth?

By some means, probably beyond human devising, this old world is to be saved—not merely reformed, but saved, to the new life which Jesus Christ bequeathed as His parting bequest to His friends.

O Son of Man, to right my lot
Naught but Thy presence can avail;
Yet on the road Thy wheels are not,
Nor on the sea Thy sail!

My how or when Thou will not heed,
But come down Thine own secret stair.
That Thou mayst answer all my need—
Yea, every bygone prayer.
—GEORGE MacDONALD.

BRYAN MEMORIAL IS VIEWED BY HUNDREDS

Tenth Anniversary Occasion for Open House in All Hospital Departments

Hundreds of visitors crowded thru the corridors of Bryan Memorial hospital Friday looking into the immaculate rooms and admiring the view from the many windows Nothing was too sacred for the crowds to gaze at from the nursery with its rows of tiny baskets and their even tinier bundles to the glittering surgery where many of the visitors were seen to sudder tnd on to the laboratories with their innumerable gadgets so necessary to the work of a modern hospital They wandered into the comfortable lounge to rest aching feet and discuss with friends the wonders of modern medicine

Probably mont of them looked a long time at the nurses home which was originally 'Fairview' home of Williac Jennings Bryan All this was Bryan Memorial's way of celebraing their tenth anniversary allowing inspection of a plant which was not so many years ago only a vision in the minds of a small but determined group

The original articles of incorporation for the hospital were filed Dec 14, 1920 by George E Hager under auspices of the Methodist Episcopal church In July, 1922, Mr and Mrs William Jennings Bryan made an outright gift of their home and grounds to the church and the decision was then made to build on that site June 2, 1926 Lora Craig was received as the first patient In May 1930 the structure assumed its present form and its total bed capacity was increased to 100

The corporation felt that in view of the progress made in those ten years a celebration was in order That is why the hospital was thrown open to visitors so that anyone interested might see the growth of the institution and the completeness of care which it offers

The celebration will conclude Friday evening with dinner in the Student Activities building on the college of agriculture campus Bishop Charles L Mead of Kansas City will be the principal speaker During dinner six tableaux, showing the main periods in the growth and development of the hospital, will be presented by Mrs R E Harrington A motion picture illustrating a patient s course thru the institution from reception to discharge, will be shown committees and others who handle liquidation of defaulted real estate securities for the bondholders was suggested to the house by a special investigating committee

A special statement by the federal crop reporting board, containing no actual estimates said prospects for spring grains and hay crops declined during the first half of June

House leaders agreed to try to pass and send to the senate during the day the Ramspeck bill to put first second and third class postmasters under civil service

Robinson Packs Up.

So confident was Senator Robinson of Arkansas, democratic leader, that congress would adjourn Saturday night that he packed his suitcase to leave Sunday for Philadelphia where he will be permanent chairman of the democratic national convention

The complete agreement in a senate house conference on the form of the new tax bill raised the leaders hopes several notches The bill designed to raise $800 000 000 carries graduated levies of 7 to 27 percent on undistributed profits of corporations and makes other major changes in tax law It goes far to meet the white house tax demands.

The other major bar to quick adjournment already had been removed when congress handed to President Roosevelt the bill carrying $1 425 000 000 for relief next fiscal year This, with unexpended balances and other items, will permit a $3 271 000 000 program of relief and public works The sum may spell relief jobs for 3 000 000 on the basis of present costs

The house agreed to a conference report on the $992 524 000 treasury-postoffice supply bill Senate approval is slated to send it to President Roosevelt

Congress has sent along to the white house the Robinson-Patman bill outlawing 'unfair price discriminations in favor of chain stores and other large quantity purchasers

President Roosevelt decided to forego his usual week end boat trip in order to be close at hand for the wind-up of congress Asked whether he had any comment on the general program thus far adopted by congress now that it was about to adjourn the president said he thought not All he knew about a trip to the west coast he said was what he had seen in the newspapers

STATE SCHOOL FUND GETS LICENSE FEES

a stated basis of division, largely that of school population

Judge Paine says that this is the proper construction that "the license fees do not belong to any particular school district within which the business of any particular licensee is carried on, but such moneys are for the use of all of the school districts within the jurisdiction of the body granting the licenses, and as such body is a state commission, it is proper to follow the law as established by the legislature and pay such moneys to the state treasurer, to be accounted for under the state school fund While there is considerable force in the contentions of the plaintiff, yet we are of the opinion that the method of distribution of these funds which has been followed in the past is proper and lawful and it has been a legal distribution of these funds under the law If the plaintiff is aggrieved by this manner of distribution, then relief should be sought by an act of the next legislature rather than thru the court The action of the state officers in the handling of state license moneys is confirmed and approved"

The court adds

It is clear that the act is of great length and contains many involved and uncertain provisions and that it was arrived at only after reference to conference committees and finally adopted in some haste The clarification of the ambiguities in the act can not be achieved by giving too great weight to any one particular clause The general plan was to have a liquor control commission in which the general public would have confidence and place in its hands full authority to dispose of all questions relating to the licenses which they granted It is clear that the money paid for these licenses was to be turned over weekly to the state treasurer and the only provision under which such temporary school funds can be disbursed by the state treasurer is by following said section 79 2002 Comp St 1929 which the state treasurer and the state superintendent of public instruction have heretofore followed To carry out the contention of the plaintiff the state treasurer would be required to know from what portion of the state each and every part of said license funds came and some method not yet made clear would have to be devised by which state warrants could be drawn and such funds disbursed by a new method contended for by the plaintiff

GOOCH FIRST EXECUTED UNDER LINDBERGH LAW

watched him die Rich Owen prison executioner who has sent 53 men to death, tripped the drop

Gooch's final hope for clemency did not fail until Thursday night when President Roosevelt denied an appeal for a pardon

He walked almost an eighth of a mile to the scaffold which was inside an extension of the main prison walls

When Gooch heard that the president had denied his plea 'The president didn t read my letter' he moaned "I don t think the president should have issued a statement"

Gooch s greatest hope for clemency lay in the fact that such desperate characters as Alvin Karpis, William Mahan Harry Campbell and Thomas Robinson, jr—men who killed or kidnaped and demanded and collected ransom—were permitted to plead guilty and receive prison sentences

"I wanted to plead guilty and they wouldn't let me," Gooch said "Why should they hang me and let those others go to prison? I never hurt anyone in my life. I dressed that cop s wound when he cut himself on the glass"

Arant said he killed Norman because of the "unwritten law" that Mrs Norman's death was accidental.

Walter Miller, was charged with killing Miss Vivian Woodward, 19 year old Huntsville girl. He denied the charge. Returned to Alabama after his capture in Indiana, he was tried under a heavy guard of militiamen.

be but Washington speculation centered on Representative Lemke (r, N. D), co-author with Frazier of the farm inflation proposal

Lemke said he did not know whether he would make a statement on the situation at this time There were strong indications that Lemke is considering announcement of his candidacy on a third ticket pledged to enact the Frazier-Lemke bill.

How much support Lemke's candidacy would attract from western progressive groups was uncertain

Frazier, himself, said that while he favored "a strong third party" he would not pledge himself to support such a group until he saw its candidate and platform

"Ultimately we are coming to a third party or more likely a realignment of parties," he said "A strong third party probably would drive the conservatives of the present parties into one of the present groups thus forcing a realignment that would be beneficial

"I would go along with a strong third party movement The party label has never been of importance to me'

He said that he had not conferred recently with the third party movement leaders, but in the part he had frequently discussed the possibilities with leaders of farmer - labor and progressive groups.

Senator Nye Frazier s North Dakota colleague said he was 'interested" in the third party movement but had not abandoned his efforts to work thru the republican party

FLINT, Mich (AP) A strong possibility that the Rev Charles E Coughlin will announce Friday night in New York his affiliation with share-the-wealth and Townsend pension forces was seen Friday after a meeting here addressed by Dr Francis E Townsend and Gerald L K Smith

A telegram from the priest read at the meeting asked that all those present listen to his broadcast speech Friday night and then 'send telegrams and resolutions backing me up'

FRENCH HAVE ALREADY ATTEMPTED INFLATION

($55 356 000 already has been borrowed Of the amount borrowed 14 000 000 000 francs has been advanced by the Bank of France

"I am not afread to say that the assumption of these bonds by banks and rediscounts constitutes fiction," he declared He meant that such action was nothing more than disguished inflation

In addition to the government's own difficulties, the treasury may need to advance railroads between 4 and 5 billion francs, $163,000 000 to $329 500,000), bringing total needs to 15 billions ($988 500,000) at a time when the present borrowing power is exhaused, he said

He disclosed the government soon will issue "baby bonds" similar to those issued in the United States, but that in the meantime the government will have to run up a large overdraft at the Bank of France for current expenses.

Devaluation of the franc will not solve the economic problems of the nation and Frenchmen themselves must be on guard against such a campaign, Auroil said

Five Measures Planned.

He disclosed that his plan for recovery consisted of five measures, namely

1 Legislation calling for the declaration of all holdings abroad by July 15, under severe penalties including even confiscation and loss of civil rights

2 Issuance of baby bonds, with an overdraft from the Bank of France designed to carry the treasury until the bonds are taken.

3 Reformation of the Bank of France, placing it under direct control of the state, reorganization of the banking system, and general rationalizing of the credit system

4. Lowering of interest rates

5 Revision and simplification of the tax system

LEAGUE ORGANIZER FORMER LINCOLNITE

assets are not listed, but the main asset appears to be the indisputable fact that it is doing the best pamphleteering promotion job for President Roosevelt's re-election Its chief liability seems to be the uniqueness of its double entry bookkeeping

The only substantial contributor to the league, according to Mallon, was Dr High the president s new idea man He donated $6 000 to the league up to May 31, period covered by the report He is president of the corporation, originator and sole inspiration. Mallon continues

But while being all these things Dr High was also the largest item of cost of his league the record shows While he was putting in $6 000 he was taking out much of it in salary at $300 per week or $15 600 per year This undoubtedly makes the Good Neighbor League inc one of the few corporations in the histors of business whose chief source of revenue was also its greatest object of expenditure

Mallon finds in the league some semblance of a holding company in that the second largest contribution was a loan of $2 000 from the democratic national committee security and interest rate are not mentioned He also finds an interlocking directorate in that Dr High has some official connection with the democratic national committee, other than that of banker and client He is listed as having received $40 from the committee on April 3, the item marked "to be accounted for"

These things comments Mallon certainly indicate that the bookkeeper of the league inc requires a two-pants suit or must wear an overcoat in summer to provide enough pockets to keep the right money in the right pocket'

Noticeable activities of the league so far include the issuance of two booklets, one entitled "Boondoggling," which explains certain projects laughed at generally, and a second, "The Case Against Franklin D. Roosevelt," which presents the case for him The league also issues a tabloid weekly, "The Roosevelt Record"

CROP PROSPECTS IN MIDWEST DECLINING

the showers dodged a domain of heat over the middle plains

New records for high June temperatures were marked up in scattered hot spots of the central states, where the mercury rose past the 100-degree level at a midsummer clip.

Farmers turned more seriously to the problems of drouth and grasshoppers, and some officials pressed for government aid Gov Thomas Berry of South Dakota listened to drouth reports from over his state and concluded "Thruout a large portion of the state, people are going to need more help from the federal government this summer and winter than ever before" The southeastern portion of South Dakota was an exception

In Washington Murphy, (d, Ia), after a talk with President Roosevelt, said he felt sure funds to combat the damage of a dry season would be available from the Resettlement administration

In Kansas, where the mercury reached a top of 110 degrees, poison work against grasshoppers has been started in several counties Farmers in the eastern and central portions reported the infestation was the worst of recent years At McPherson, Kas merchants swept 'hoppers out of their doorways

The weather bureau expected a continuation of showers in New England and along the middle Atlantic coast. Rain fell on scattered parts of the northern Rocky mountain region and the north Pacific states, and thundershowers cooled dry regoins of Georgia and the Carolinas.

Some of the warmer points Wednesday were Brawley, Calif, 118 degrees, Colby, Kas, 110, Great Bend and Eldorado, Kas 107 Clinton, Okl, 108 Scottsbluff, Neb., 104, which equaled the high for June, and Pueblo, Colo 103 6.

in place, the rope was taut, when police broke in

A bath robe cord was knotted around the little boy's neck a rope around the girl s neck An ice pick had been driven deep into their mother's temple but the children had not been stabbed An autopsy will determine if Mrs Feely s death was caused by the ice pick or by strangulation

Strangulation caused the deaths the autopsy revealed Wounds about the temples of the three victims, ostensibly inflicted by an ice pick found on the floor of their home, near the bodies were not sufficient to have caused death the report said

The ice pick bore no fingerprints, and only one distinct print was found on the hammer which lay beside the bodies It was not from the hand of Mrs Feely but might have been made by an investigator

RIGGLE APPOINTED OFFICER

Roy Riggle, 39, since 1934 a part time patrolman paid by the city and by business men of College View, was made a full fledged officer Friday, according to Chief Anderson Riggle, who lives at 1218 Furnas, had had 32 months service on the evteran's patrol

Riggle's appointment came at the request of Mayor Bryan, who said College View was a suburb of the city and entitled to the same police protection from the city as was given Havelock and University Place Bryan stated he did not believe it should be necessary for the business men to pay for their protection in College View any more than in the other suburbs

Riggle will continue to be night patrolman.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT.

CHOOSING THE CONTRACT

The hand I am presenting today was sent to me by Thomas H Peebles of Boston Mass, to illustrate excel lent deduction and clever "squeez ing" by a declarer at a small slam contract in no trump.

I have no reason to cavil at the statement that the hand was exceed ingly well played The description of the play given below, speaks for it self The more important point about this hand however, is that it preaches a sermon which is just this No trump slam contracts unless twelve tricks are cold usually require abso lute perfection in play The average player is not up to difficult squeeze plays and therefore it is only the bet ter part of wisdom for him to choose contracts that will not offer involved problems

Compare the tortuous line of play necessary at six no trump with the simple line at six hearts, and my meaning will become crystal clear.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	2 hearts	Pass
3 clubs	Pass	3 dimds.	Pass
4 no trp.	Pass	5 no trp.	Pass
6 no trp.	Pass	Pass	Pass

The queen of spades was opened and taken by North, who finessed the ten of hearts West, winning, returned a spade which was taken by North, who discarded a diamond from dummy

The deuce of diamonds was led and the queen successfully finessed and the king of hearts was laid down Since the queen dropped, the remainder of the hearts was played out, West discarding two small spades. North reasoned that West was protecting four clubs to the jack, and so discarded his four and three of clubs The North hand now was entered with a club, and the ace, king, and queen played out, leaving North with two cards, the four of diamonds and the deuce of spades. West was left with the two minor suit jacks, and dummy with the ace-10 of diamonds. East, becoming squeezed, had to bare his diamond king or part with his spade If West had saved a spade and thrown the jack of diamonds, North could take the A-10 finesse against the diamond king

Incidentally, a diamond opening and a diamond return by West when on lead with the heart jack would have scotched the eventual squeeze and defeated the contract.

Now let us consider the simple play at six hearts Regardless of the opening lead, South merely would have to take the diamond finesse [also necessary at six no trump] and ruff one diamond in the dummy The queen of clubs and king of spades would provide tricks for the discarding of the other two diamonds The only conditions necessary to success would be a reasonable break in hearts and a successful finesse against the diamond king

An infinitely easier contract to play, I should say, than six no trump.

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: My partner was declarer at three no trump One of the opponents held four aces Does he get credit for 150 honors?

Answer: Yes Honors go to the side that holds them, regardless of which side plays the contract.

Disillusionist Not Really Alive!

He Gets Pity of Black Because He Doesn't Believe in Anything

By WINIFRED BLACK

IT WAS the late Fremont Older who found a name for them—he called them the "Disillusionists".

They're the people who don't believe in a thing, not an earthly thing, or an unearthly one, either. They don't believe in ghosts, in fairies, in Santa Claus, in saints or in devils.

For them there is neither good nor evil; no wrong and no right; no sin and no sinners; no hope and no despair; no laughter and no tears. Just a dull, gray, blank wall of nothing—that's the new cult, the new fad, the latest freak of those who call themselves the Intellectuals.

Poor things! Why, I'd rather be an old, gray tabby lying in the sun on a stone wall, with the yellow leaves of the old apple tree whispering to me of the summer that has passed, than one of them—the Disillusionists!

I know a man who digs ditches for a living. He's a nice, clean, hale, old man of 50 or thereabouts. He has a straight back and strong arms and a pair of keen, blue eyes that never stop laughing, except when they see someone in sorrow, and then they cry.

He gets up at 6 o'clock in the morning, makes the coffee for the old mother who lives with him, eats his breakfast with an appetite, packs his luncheon of cold meat and bread and a good, juicy, white onion and a pinch of salt, and away he goes, whistling like a lifebuoy when the tide is coming in.

Contented Life

At noon he sits in the shade and eats his bread and meat and his salt and onion, and he never leaves a morsel. Then he smokes his pipe with deep breaths of pleasure, and then he works until the men throw down their shovels and put on their coats, and home he trudges, and not a thing does he miss on the road.

He believes in fairies and in ghosts and in legends and in saints and in sinners. Why, I believe he really believes in Santa Claus!

Whisper—I'd rather be a good, old, honest, hard-working laborer with my heart full of honest hatred of evil and honest love of good, than to be the richest and cleverest Disillusionist in the world, who isn't really alive at all, poor soul. He only thinks he is, he and his everlasting "no, indeed".

Disillusionists, bah!

What if your doll is stuffed with sawdust, you poor short-sighted cynic—it's a perfectly good doll, isn't it? And if not, just cast a look at your neighbor's doll, and see if that isn't all right.

Disillusionists, indeed!

You've just been eating green apples, and your mind has the collywobbles, that's all.

MAN, 20, TO MEET FATHER

Warren Betts, Norfolk, to See Parent for First Time.

NORFOLK, Neb. (AP). One day next week at Santa Monica, Calif., a 20 year old man will see his father for the first time. The son is Warren Betts of Norfolk, who will be twenty-one July 1, and the father is Edward G. Betts, a government forest ranger.

Warren's mother died shortly after he was born at Winner, S. D., and his grandparents took him. The boy's father enlisted in the army and when discharged he went to California and married a second time.

INVOLVED IN ARAB TROUBLE

'Outside Money' Mentioned But Source Not Told.

LONDON. (AP). The house of commons received official indications that outside money is involved in the present disturbances between Arabs and Jews in Palestine. The marques of Hartington, parliamentary undersecretary for dominions, refused to answer a legislator's question as to whether there was evidence the money came from Rome.

MOTHER TO DIE IN CHAIR

Housewife Is Convicted of Slaying Her Son.

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Pa. A jury convicted Mrs. Margaret Karmendi of the slaying of her three year old son and set the penalty at death in the electric chair. The 24 year old housewife walked from the courtroom without showing any emotion.

She told police she hitchhiked from Illinois "for the fun of it" and to find work. She said she found a job doing housework here.

Has Trunk but He's Not Luggage

Goodnight Stories

By MAX TRELL

"NOW LOOK here," said Knarf to the elephant, "you can get out of your cage. All you have to do is try."

"I'll be glad to try," said the elephant. "What should I try?"

"Try jumping out."

"Oh, I can't jump. I'm too heavy. Besides, elephants never jump. We're not made for jumping. Now take a horse. There's somebody who can jump."

"But my master doesn't want a horse," said Knarf, who was the shadow of a boy. "Now jump!"

"Isn't there anything else I can try?" the elephant asked after he had jumped five or six times. He was quite out of breath. "I wouldn't mind rolling a bit. Wouldn't rolling do?"

Knarf shook his head. "Rolling wouldn't do at all. You'd never get out of the cage by rolling. Can you squeeze?"

"Squeeze what?"

"Squeeze between the bars."

Squeezes Through

"I could squeeze my trunk through," the elephant said. "I'm positive the rest of me wouldn't go through. Oh yes—my tail would go through. Do you think your boy would be satisfied with my trunk and my tail?"

"He wants a whole elephant," Knarf said. "He's very particular about getting a whole elephant."

So he squeezed harder, and harder and harder! Suddenly the bars broke and he stepped right out.

"There," cried Knarf, "I knew you could do it! Now follow me. The house where you're going to live is down the end of the next street, then

"But he doesn't want a horse."

around to the left, and across a vacant lot, and over a fence and—"

"Maybe I ought to have a peanut first," interrupted the elephant. "It seems like such a long trip. I'm sure to get hungry. Have you got a peanut?"

"No," said Knarf.

"No?" sighed the elephant.

"But I'll buy you some."

"You will! Where?"

"At the corner," said Knarf. "There's where the man with the peanut stand stands."

"That suits me," said the elephant. "Let's run with all our mights. No. I have a better idea. You carry me. Then I won't be so tired when we get there. Will you carry me?"

"Carry you!" cried Knarf. "Why, you weigh a ton!"

Married Comrades

A Sequel to "Given in Marriage"

Madge Gives Brixton Plan for Approaching Ronald

"I DON'T think I understand," Samuel Brixton commented as I told him that Mrs. Brixton's inability to be a Derby Day chaperon because of her recent illness made it complete for my story to Ronald.

"You will shortly," I told him. "I am going to tell Ronald that I drove down to Whitney Hall to consult with Marion about an acceptable and suitable chaperon for the Derby Day festivities. I shall say that Carolyn was temporarily absent when we arrived, and that when Marion found out my errand, she arranged matters so that Carolyn did not see us or know we were there.

"I shall say that Marion did this in order to keep from Carolyn as long as possible the sad news that there were to be no Derby Day festivities. I shall make it very clear that Marion would have volunteered no information on the subject, but that when I asked her about the chaperon, she told me that she was not going to New Haven, and that Ronald had said he would have to call off the date because his father was in financial difficulties.

"Don't you see," I went on, "that without involving Marion any further, I can tell Ronald we were so worried over the news that we came straight to you to find out what was wrong.

Plan Is Set

"Then I shall begin to imitate Sapphira," I said. "I shall tell him that you told us something unexpected had turned up which had staved off for a while, and might eventually pull you through. But you were so shattered nervously by the long strain and the sudden reaction that you were nervous about driving up, and we offered to drive to New Haven with you.

"Probably Ronald can arrange to drive you home. If not, we will continue on with you."

"Oh, Ron can take that much time," his stepfather said. "He's often done it."

"Then that part of it is all right," I said. "Do you see any flaw in the story?"

"I think that ought to turn the trick," he said thoughtfully, "but I shall feel an absolute idiot giving all those prospects to the boy, knowing all the while that he is celebrating on your money—something which would kill him if he dreamed of it—he is so proud, you know."

Indeed, I did know. I told myself, and suddenly there came to me the eerie sensation of something outside mortal ken near me, of wraith-like fingers beckoning me over the bridge of Dicky's possible displeasure, which I had been hesitant to cross, and of a long-silent voice murmuring "Remember." You promised me! Do not fail me!"

Madge Worried

Instinctively I slowed down the car—for the memories which were thronging upon me so paralyzed my powers of speech and action that for the moment I did not dare to drive the car farther.

"Don't be alarmed!" I said to Samuel Brixton who had uttered a hoarse exclamation at my action, and who, I guessed, must have seen something disquieting in my face. "I am simply humoring my eyes a bit. Every so often when I am driving, they become tired, and for a minute or two I feel sleepy. No!"—as hasty speech trembled on his lips—"I do not wish you to drive. I am perfectly all right. If I can close my eyes for just a minute or two and relax, I shall be perfectly all right again."

I turned off the ignition switch and put my head against the side of the car with an air of finality, closing my eyes as I did so. Nothing so indicated the change in Samuel Brixton as his quiet acquiescence in my decision. The man he had been before his financial downfall would have blustered and protested, and have made it absolutely impossible for me to accomplish my purpose, that of pulling myself together and either banishing the ghostly memories which were besetting me, or trying with all that was in me to obey the urgent message they were bringing me.

For, as clearly as I ever had heard him speak in life, the voice of Robert Savarin was sounding in my ears.

SANTA MONICA, Calif.—As tho it weren't bad enough already to have a presidential campaign on this year, grasshoppers are threatening growing things in the midwest.

True to their advance notices, the 17 year locusts are popping out along the eastern seaboard. In Ontario, a plague of caterpillars covers the railroad tracks so thickly trains cannot run on schedule.

There's no word yet from our little southern friend, the boll weevil, but news is expected. Maybe he's waiting for the return of the cotton crops that we used to plant for the export trade- when we had an export cotton trade.

The pine borer is reported on the job in the north woods. To date, out here, we have only the regular resident pests, including the white termite, the red ant, and the mother who can prove her child is another Shirley Temple, if somebody would only listen. Of the last named, we already have upwards of 30,000 and more arriving every day.

Still, we cannot hope to escape. Presently, the party who goes around taking straw votes on the election will start multiplying rapidly. And the professional California spell binders will be binding and at any moment Upton Sinclair is liable to start running for something.

Operation for Gallstones Advised

Surgery No Longer Is Regarded as Serious, States Dr. Copeland

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City

NOT LONG ago I wrote about a new operation for gallstones. Since then many inquiries have been made concerning this procedure.

I did not mean to imply that this operation was to be used in all cases as a substitute for other methods of treatment. It was intended as an explanation of a method advised by several surgeons who specialize in this work.

Many write to inquire whether it is possible to be relieved of gallstones without operation. They hope some chemical or drug may dissolve these stones. Unfortunately, no medicine has as yet been perfected to dissolve gallstones.

There is no doubt that a great number of persons unwisely reject the operation for gallstones. This surgical procedure is no longer regarded as serious. In the hands of a competent surgeon the operation is a simple one.

The great danger of gallstones is in their neglect. It is not safe to delay or to avoid a needed operation. Neglect leads to further infection and inflammation, and even rupture of the gall bladder. When these complications occur the dangers and complications of the operation are markedly increased. The patient is subjected to unnecessary risks.

For many years society has faced the problem of gallstones. Although the actual cause is not known many theories are presented. But it is generally believed that the stones primarily form as the result of some infection of the gall bladder.

Yet, despite this accepted theory, many operations are performed which reveal no evidence of infection. In such cases, perhaps, the stones form as a result of some vitamin deficiency. For this reason it is advised that the diet be chosen to include an abundance of vitamins and thus prevent stone formation.

I am often asked whether all cases of gallstones demand operation. This is a difficult question to answer. It depends entirely upon the individual case, including the size, location and number of stones, as well as the symptoms that are present.

DON'T TREAT CONSTIPATION* LIGHTLY

Poor Health May Be the Price of Neglect

Too many people dismiss common constipation* as a matter of no great consequence. Yet this condition causes discomfort, and may lead to headaches and loss of appetite. When it is allowed to continue, it may lower your resistance, and so increase your chances of catching a serious illness.

Common constipation often develops when you eat meals that lack sufficient "bulk." Your system fails to get needed internal exercise. Fortunately, today, you have a generous source of effective "bulk" in Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

Within the body, the "bulk" in ALL-BRAN absorbs moisture, and forms a soft mass, which gently cleanses the system. This natural laxative food also supplies vitamin B and contains iron.

Serve ALL-BRAN as a cereal, with milk or cream, or cook into muffins, breads, etc. Two tablespoonfuls daily are usually sufficient. Stubborn cases may require ALL-BRAN oftener. If not relieved this way, consult your doctor.

ALL-BRAN is guaranteed by the Kellogg Company as an effective laxative food for constipation.* Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

HOLD MAN WHO INJURED 19

Cleveland Steel Worker Admits Hit-Run Accident.

CLEVELAND. (UP). Police Friday arrested Fred Wall, 23 year old steel worker, as the driver of a hit and run car which crashed into 19 men standing in a safety zone. Wall was found with a girl companion sitting in his car in a garage in which he keeps it. He was ordered held without bond. Wall admitted crashing into the men—all of them steel workers—as they waited in the safety zone for a street car. Wall related that he was traveling about 35 miles an hour, saw the men but was unable to turn his car because the steering mechanism jammed. He said his brakes were new and could not explain why his car did not stop when he applied them. Nine of the 19 are in hospitals in serious condition. The other ten were treated for lacerations and bruises and released.

DAKOTA FARMERS TO REQUIRE ASSISTANCE

Goverour Told 25 to 95 Percent of Drouth Section to Need Help.

PIERRE, S D (AP) Gov. Tom Berry had before him reports that from 25 to 95 percent of farmers in various counties of South Dakota affected by drouth, will need some form of aid this winter.

County commissioners, meeting with the governor, presented a gloomy picture of drouth damage over a large portion of the state. Information obtained by Gov. Berry will be taken by him to Washington late this month when he will seek federal aid.

The commissioners reported that a hot sun and winds have scorched most of the state, except the southeastern section and part of the south central Rosebud area.

Forecasts of rain in north central South Dakota brought predictions from Aberdeen agricultural agents that showers within three days can break the drp spell in that region

In North Dakota, Gov Walter Welford went ahead with plans for a visit to federal officials in Washington to ask help for farmers of the state. He plans to leave for Washington Sunday, after getting reports from a series of statewide county meetings to make recommendations for easing the drouth situation.

In Washington, U. S Senator Gerald P. Nye of North Dakota predicted a satisfactory solution would be worked out next week. The senator discussed the matter with President Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON. (AP. Senator Murray, Montana democrat, appealed to federal relief agencies to expedite programs to aid farmers in the drouth and pest-ravaged sections of eastern Montana.

He said they promised immediate assistance so far as their regulations would permit to the most seriously affected sections, including Wheatland, Sweet Grass, Big Horn, Custer and Powder River counties.

Murray said the resettlement administration, bolstered by new appropriations provided by congres, would be equipped to move destitute farmers from the stricken areas

The farm credit and works progress administrations and the production credit and regional agricultural credit corporations are studying needs of the area with view to relaxing requirements to extend additional aid, Murray said.

MALLON.

WASHINGTON. — Credulous Congressman Smith of Virginia was amazed by the turn of the house against the anti-lobbying bill. Here, only a few weeks ago, the legislators overwhelmingly passed the bill penalizing lobbyists, and then, when the measure came up for final technical reapproval the other day, all of a sudden, they wanted to kill it. He frankly told the house he could not understand it.

Nobody told him, but, if he had looked in the morning papers, he would have seen an item on the results of the Maine primaries. On the surface it seemed to say that the Townsendites and Coughlinites won only a 33 1-3 percent victory; that is, they nominated only two out of their six candidates.

Under the surface, however, the results hinted at a somewhat different story. For instance, a Townsendite won the republican congressional nomination in the First district. This is the district which re-elected the conservative republican, Carroll Beedy, to congress so many times that he came to be known as the conservative republican Gibraltar.

No outsider can fully appreciate the feelings of a statesman who sees the same republicans who kept Beedy in office so long turning Townsend.

It was further apparent to insiders that, in at least one of the other races apparently lost by the Coughlin-Townsendites, the result was close enough to justify a general alarm.

Beyond that, in the Third district, republican Representative Brewster (who was unopposed) has been very, very friendly with the Townsendites. They could legitimately claim his nomination as at least half a victory. Thus, their victories stand, at least, at 2½ out of six in rock ribbed, conservative old Maine.

It was certainly enough to justify a change of heart and vote on the bill which would penalize the Townsend and Coughlin lobbyists as well as the rest.

Furthermore, just before the final vote, the A. F. of L. lobby decided that it, too, would be affected by the bill, and urged its defeat.

The combination of these two developments was enough to turn the retreat on the lobby bill into a rout.

Note—The Maine results also furnished the inspiration to both Coughlinites and Townsendites to talk about a combination third ticket in the presidential field.

A combination of peculiar circumstances is supposed to have encouraged the unexpected wild-and-woolliness in Maine. That state has not received much relief gravy they say, despite passamaquoddy. The potato act failed. Also both the Townsend and Coughlin movements are comparatively fresh there.

In California, where the Townsend plan is old stuff, the primaries showed a trend in the opposite direction. Fad-stunts in economics seem to catch on fast and let go just as swiftly (Witness Share the wealth, and EPIC, now dead or dying.)

The Townsend and Coughlin faddists went into New England only about six months ago. Ordinarily, you would expect them to run their course toward self-effacement in about a year, but, by that time, the election may be over.

There is a lot of inside talk around Washington that things are going to be different if and when President Roosevelt is re-elected

In congress you hear a substantial number of democrats saying that, if they are re-elected with the president, they are going to fight any extension of new deal policies. Some of them even have an idea that they can then form a bloc which will be effective in both the senate and the house. With the presidential election out of the way and Mr. Roosevelt sure of only one more term, they think they can block many things.

Similarly, downtown, there is talk inspired by almost the highest authority that there will be wholesale cabinet changes after election. Four names are specially mentioned (Wallace, Ickes, Roper, Perkins) and others unspecifically (Hopkins, Tugwell, etc.)

This seems to be good campaign talk. Congressmen, after election, would bear almost the same responsibility to the president as now. They would have to be re-elected again in the middle of his second term. They would need patronage, consideration, etc.

The cabinet gossip serves as a good answer to the charge of weakness in personnel.

Landon Manager Hamilton is always spoken of as "Young John." But he is only four years younger than Mr. Farley. Hamilton is 44, Farley 48.

One of those who are supposed to have lent a quiet hand to defeat the excise taxes on vegetable oils and fats in the tax bill is State Secretary Hull. Having taken tariff making out of congress, it is probably disappointing to him to see tariff making arising in the guise of excise taxes.

Technicians who followed the presidential radio styles on his Texas trip saw him in a new role. He seldom smiled during his speeches and was much more serious than usual.

NEWSPAPERS RECEIVE BULK OF ADVERTISING

Get 58.2 Percent; Magazines, 26.8, and Chain Broadcasts, 15.

NEW YORK. (AP). Newspapers received the major share of national advertising expenditures in 1935, the bureau of advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers association announced in its annual survey. The survey, based on a study of the advertising budgets of 387 companies, shows their combined expenditures of $231,107,948 in the three principal media—newspapers, magazines and chain broadcasts—were apportioned as follows

Newspapers, $134,440,000 or 58.2 percent; magazines, $61,943,228 or 26.8 percent; chain broadcast, $34,724,720 or 15 percent.

Twenty-two of the 33 trade groups listed in the survey favored newspapers over the other two methods.

"As in the past," the survey says, "food, automotive and tobacco products continued to be the leading trade groups in advertising expenditure in 1935 In all three groups, newspapers received by far the major portion of the budget."

Nine of 11 leading automobile companies for which comparable figures were available, the survey reports, substantially increased their newspaper expenditure over hte 1934 figure.

The study says newspapers received 85.8 percent of the expenditure in the alcoholic beevrage group and 88.7 percent in the railroad group.

The tabulation is restricted to advertisers whose newspaper expenditure was $50,000 or more Magazine expenditures are quoted only when they exceed $20,000. Brodacast expenditures are included regardless of the amount.

LIKELY TO EXEMPT LINCOLN LODGE TAX

City Attorney Indicates Will So Recommend—Mathews Also Favorable.

Altho the supreme court has not decided the case of East Lincoln lodge No. 210, A. F. & A. M. against the city, officials of the latter are friendly to a step taken Friday by the lodge in asking tax exemption. The request, in the form of a sworn statement by Atty. Edward Fisher and Ward E. Simpson, chairman of the board of trustees, shows that the property at 27th and S is used wholly and exclusively for religious and educational purposes within the meaning of Art. 8, Sec. 2, of the state constitution and within the terms of the decision of the supreme court in the Scottish Rite case against Lancaster county.

The council's attention is called to the fact that all of the facts and circumstances relating to such exclusive use are fully set forth in the petition in the case now pending of East Lincoln lodge against the city. Since the property allegedly is wholly exempt from taxation, the council is advised that it has no jurisdiction to assess taxes.

The city won its case in district court on demurrer. The appeal was argued June 1 in supreme court.

"We did not contend," said City Attorney Laughlin, "nor do we now contend that the lodge is not entitled to exemption. We do claim that it is up to them to go about it in the regular way and appear before the council as a board of equalization and request exemption. The lodge has not made a showing before the board and failure to do so caused the lawsuit.

Likely to Recommend.

"I'll probably recommend that they be declared exempt if and when they appear before the board and make proper showing. I am sure Former Atty. Kier took this same position. Proper procedure is to appear before the board and then, if turned down, go to the district court on appeal or error."

Tax Commissioner Mathews stated that the East Lincoln lodge property is assessed this year, the same as before, $23,775 of which $1,325 represents ground value and $22,450 improvements.

Mr. Mathews said that in former years he has endeavored to have those interested in the lodge file request before the board of equalization but that this was not done.

"While not favoring exemptions, I have realized that, in view of court decisions, this lodge perhaps is entitled to exemption. The organization has sought to rest its case on exemption declared for others while, as a matter of fact, each must stand on its own feet. It would not be fair to tax this lodge when others, operating along similar lines, are exempt. They should, however, approach the matter in the regular way by seeking relief from the board of equalization."

MRS. SIDLES IS NINE UP END OF FIRST EIGHTEEN

She halved No. 8 and No. 9 to stand three down at teh turn.

Another three putt green cost th Omaha veteran on No. 10 and she missed a two footer for a half to be four down. Mrs. Sidles continued her relentless pouring of pars into Mrs. Larson to pick up the 12th and 13th. Mrs. Sidles was just short of the green with her tee shot on the 220 yard No. 14 but left herselw a five footer which she missed to halve.

Mrs. Sidles missed a ten footer for a birdie on No. 18 to halve in five and remain nine up.

Mrs. Larson was tiring badly on the last few holes and having to look at those booming tee shots of the 1935 champion all the way around would make many men golfers weary.

Mrs. Sidles won her first title last year, the first tournament in which she has played and will win as many more as she cares to compete in, according to the general concensus.

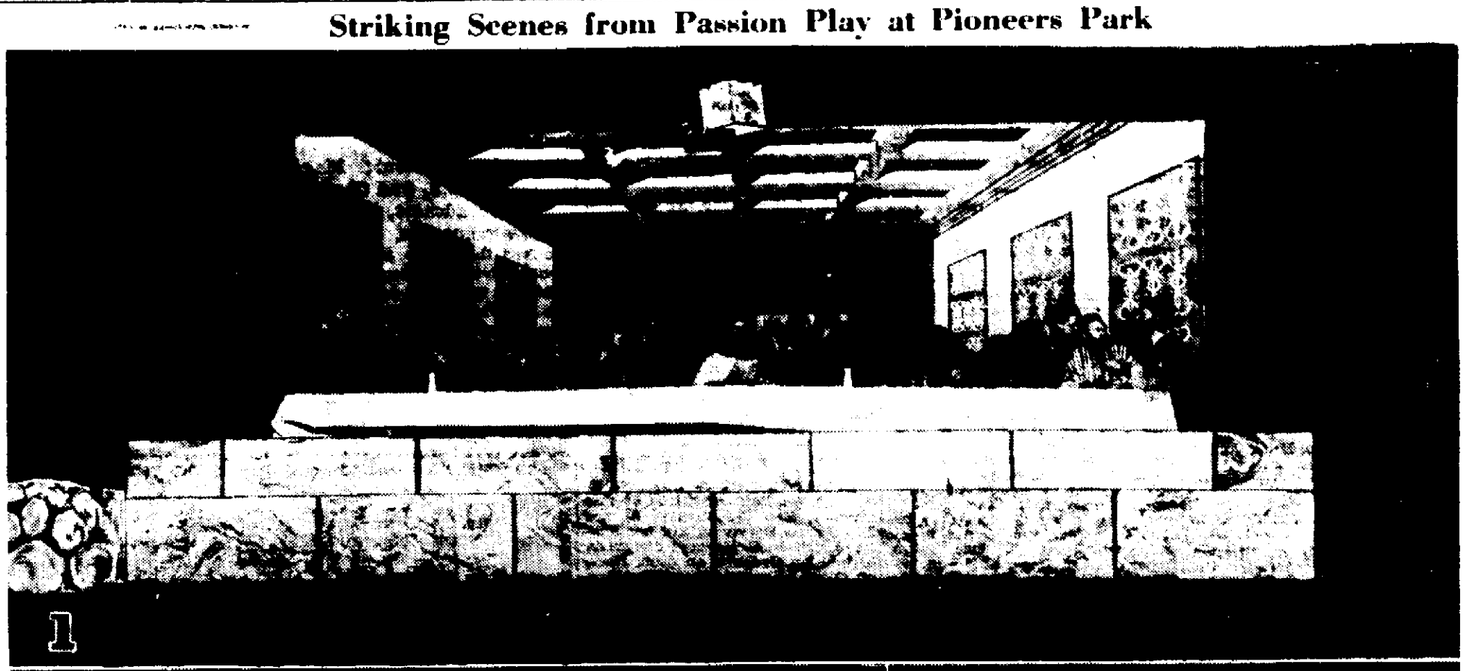

She has all the shots.

Striking Scenes from Passion Play at Pioneers Park

Here are a few of striking scenes caught by the photographer at the Passion play being given this week at Pioneers park under auspices of the Lincoln junior chamber of commerce. No. 1 is a scene depicting the last supper. The characters, left to right: Bartholomew, Loren Rohrbaugh; James the Less, Fred Blado; Andrew, August Kohl; Peter, B. I. Noble; Judas, A. B. Gorman; John, Nicholas Stanley Peters; Christ, Ralph Hamilton; James the Great, Ralph Fortna, jr.; Thomas, Jack Fullington; Phillip, John Hoehne; Matthew, D. R. Martin; Simon, L. A. Stacy; Thaddeus, E. H. Armintrout.

No. 2 depicts the Trial Before Pilate and in the picture left to right the characters are Caiaphas, Eugene Johnson; Christ, Ralph Hamilton.

No. 3 Christ before the tomb with Ralph Hamilton taking the part.

No. 4 shows a small part of the crowd, other sections finding seats on other hills surrounding the natural amphitheater.

STATE LOSES ITS CLAIM

The state of Nebraska departed from the supreme court Friday with empty hands as the result of a decision that altho it owns bonds issued by the village of Philips it cannot defeat a suit of owners of vacant agricultural lands to have them detached from the municipality, on the ground that this impaired the obligations of the contract and left a smaller amount of taxable property as security.

The court says that it will hold to previous findings that any person who deals with a municipal corporation does so with knowledge that its limits may be changed under the provisions of existing laws; that a bondholder or other creditor has no vested right on that account to have the boundaries remain intact so long as the corporation continues to exist with a substantial part of its original territory, and that disconnection of lands under the provisions of the statute is not an impairment of the bondholders' contract.

Twenty-five taxpayers of the village had also intervened claiming that they would have to pay a larger share of the bonded debt if the lands were allowed to be detached. The total assessed valuation of the village is $69,710, the value of the detached lands $2,023, and $8,000 water bonds are outstanding.

The court says that the legislature had absolute power to change municipal boundaries, and to apportion the debt, and that when the act is silent as to apportionment of municipal debts, the territory embraced within the new boundaries becomes liable for all prior debts and the territory excluded is forever released from such liability.

A FORMER MAYOR OF SIDNEY IS DROWNED

Herman Schroeder, 70, Was Prominent Mason and Railroad Man.

SIDNEY, Neb. (AP). The body of Herman Schroeder, 70, retired railroad official and former mayor of Sidney, was found in a swimming pool at the city park Friday and Co. Atty. P. J. Heaton said he was satisfied he had taken his own life. Searching parties summoned by a fire alarm at 1:30 a. m. brought the body to the surface after Schroeder's coat was seen floating.

Schroeder, a prominent Mason and one of the most widely known Nebraska members of the Union Pacific Old Timers club, was last seen at about 11 p. m. Wednesday, when he bought a stamp in a Sidney drug store. He talked with a friend and then walked south to the city park.

Heaton and Dr. R. E. Roche, who examined the body, said Schroeder apparently walked directly to the park and plunged into the water. Roche said there were four faint cuts on Schroeder's wrist, indicating he might have attempted to end his life in some other way. Schroeder had lived in Sidney for 50 years.

OFFER MADE TO BUY LINCOLN HAIL ASSETS

Cliff Caldwell Asks Court to Approve Purchase of Company.

Two motions were filed in district court rFiday in the Lincoln Hail company receivership case, which would in effect, if approved by the court, amount to a liquidation of the receivership. Cliff Caldwell of Lincoln has made an offer to take over the assets and will pay 25 percent of all adjusted losses for the year 1932, or about $34,000. He also offers to take up notes held by the Continental National bank and pay $28,222. Claims for about $30,000 by intervenors in the receivership suit are not affected by the proposal.

In return Caldwell is to be given notes amounting to around $200,000 and now held as assets by the insurance department. Seventy-five percent of these notes, according to Richard Stout and Jay Rodgers, attorneys for Thomas P. Johnson, will be outlawed by Sept. 1. Johnson states in his motion that he now owns 83 percent of the volume of losses of policyholders of the company obtained for a valuable consideration by assignment.

Johnson's motion asks that the court approve acceptance of the offer of Caldwell. W. R. Linch and C. A. Linch, former officers of the hail company, ask Director Srmha of the insurance department to approve the offer of compromise and settlement. The Linches are represented by J. J. Thomas and C. J. Campbell.

DISPUTE IS WIDENED AFTER DISSENSION

Presbyterians Extend Controversy on Conviction of Conservatives.

PHILADELPHIA. (AP). New scenes of dissension appeared in a steadily broadening circle of Presbyterian controversy. Into Delaware and Missouri the arguments spread, adding to those already commanding attention of the week old Presbyterian Church of America and mother denomination, the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. Difficulties appeared first in Pennsylvania, which quarters the general offices of both groups, and in New Jersey.

Volunteer guards patrolled the property of the Hollingswood, N. J., Presbyterian church, whose congregation voted by wide margin this week to secede from the church in the U. S. A.. Its pastor, Rev. Carl McIntire, suspended by the parent denomination, said "they know what to do" should the West Jersey Presbytery attempt to take possession of the church.

A group of 35 members of the Forest Presbyterian church in Middletown, Del., refused to accept the resignation of Rev. Robert H. Graham, one of the charter members of the church of America. They declared thmeselves independent of the old denomination.

Communicants of the Mifflinburg, Pa., Presbyterian church sought to have their pastor, Rev. Robert L. Vining, reconsider his resignation, submitted Sunday with the avowed purpose of affiliating himself with the new group.

Three churches in Philadelphia stood divided after large groups of their members joined with their suspended pastors this week in leaving the parent sect. The Know Presbyterian church of Philadelphia became the first member congregation of the new order.

Missouri synod of the church in the U. S. A. protested the use of the name, "Presbyterian Church of America" by the new group, and urged steps to prevent its incorporation under that title.

APPROVES LINCOLN BID.

OMAHA. (AP). John Latenser, jr., state PWA director, approved the $11,004 low bid of the W. J. Assenmacher company of Lincoln for general construction of an auditorium at Utica.

BORAH READY TO RUN, BALKS ON ONE PLANK

Reserves Right to Exercise Freedom of Views on National Issues.

POCATELLO, Ida. (AP). Senator Borah is "rather anxious" to run again—but reserves the right to "exercise full freedom of views and of discussion" on national issues and candidates, it was learned.

Some Idaho republicans professed bewilderment regarding the veteran statesman's aims. One friend proposed a conference of "the best minds of the party" to consider Borah's position. At Washington, Borah declined amplification.

In a letter to R. P. Parry, republican state chairman, Borah said he is willing to seek the nomination in the Aug. 11 primary for the office he has held 30 years.

He made plain, however, he wrote to make his position clear that state party leaders might "agree upon another candidate," if they wished, in view of Borah's "stand on the republican monetary plank."

The senator reiterated his opposition to any move toward "return to the gold standard," adding: "I shall not at this time go into detail. But I feel that I ought to advise you and other republicans of my position. It seems, as I said some weeks ago, that in this campaign the candidates are to be the platform and such will be my position in the campaign."

Ralph E. Whitten of Boise, who has announced he aspires to the republican senatorial nomination, charged Borah's letter "amounts to partial repudiation of the national party platform."

But State Chairman Parry wrote Borah: "I see no reason why you should be concerned over any variance between your views and those of others on the money question. Your own views are generally known and widely respected here in Idaho." Parry added "it is the almost universal opinion of men in both parties that you will be re-elected by a large majority."

RFC LOAN PLAN STUDIED

Would Hasten Liquidation of 120 Failed State Banks.

Forms on which proposed loans from RFC may be made on assets of 120 failed Nebraska state banks to hasten liquidation were considered Thursday at a conference of Superintendent Saunders of the state banking department, George R. Froelich, examiner for RFC, and W. P. Kelley, associate of Francis P. Matthews, district RFC counsel. The form had been sent to Washington and returned after being considered with reference to changes made to conform to Nebraska law.

They found changes at Washington only in minor particulars, said Saunders. He said upon receipt of new printed forms he hopes the loan plan will be put into effect. The next step will be appraisal of the assets of the failed banks. This is to be done by the state department and must be passed upon by the RFC agents. If an agreement can be arrived at, a lump sum loan will be made by the RFC based on the agreed appraised value. The remaining equity of any will then be sold at auction so that the assets may be extinguished and the state banking department as receiver will be at liberty to take action to recover liability of stockholders of the banks. Actual liquidation is to be in charge of the RFC.

2,300 SEE PASSION PLAY

Real Lightning Beautifies Second Performance.

The Passion Play, aided in its storm scene Thursday night by natural lightning from banks of clouds in the northwest, was presented the second time before a crowd of 2,300 gathered in Pioneers park.

Presenting an even smoother performance than on opening night, the cast of 1,000 again realistically enacted the vivid drama of Christ's Crucifixion and ascension. The second night audience, like the first, was amazed at the realistic qualities with which Rev. David Johnson, author-director, endows the characters in his conception of the age-old story.

The characterization of Judas, the young disciple who betrayed his Master, is perhaps the most appealing to the spectators, who are surprised at the humanness of this individual whom biblical history had portrayed in an unfavorable light. A. B. Gorman, plays the part. Other outstanding performances were those of the four rulers of Jerusalem, played by A. A. Olson, Earl Walton, Parvin Witte and Dr. Ralph McGoogan, and the character of Peter, portrayed by B. I. Noble Cars from 39 Nebraska counties and five other states were reported on the grounds by M. O. Phelps, business manager.

JAMES WAS WED 6 TIMES

Man Accused in Slaying Reveals Another Marriage.

LOS ANGELES. (AP). An alienist quoted Robert S. James as saying Mary James, who he is accused of slaying in a diabolical drowning plot, was his sixth wife, not his fifth.

James, red haired master barber, has told authorities he was married five times, but Dr. M. J. Rowe of the Norwalk state hospital for the insane reported that James admitted yet another woman was wedded to him.

This hitherto unmentioned wife, number one, threatened his life and put ground glass and poison in his food, James told Dr. Rows, so he left her. He declined to disclose her name.

PENSION INCREASE VOTED

Heavy Cut Under Economy Act Invalidated.

WASHINGTON. (AP). A house bill to increase pensions to veterans of the regular army, navy and marine corps, who received a heavy cut under the economy act, was passed by the senate and sent to the white house.

The legislation was estimated to cost $1,942,600 a year over present expenditures. The money would go to 15,080 veterans who were on the rolls on March 19, 1933. Under the measure, the economy act cut would be limited to 25 percent of former benefits.

FUTURE FARMERS ARE TOPIC OF DISCUSSION

Teachers of Vocational Agriculture Also Consider George-Deen Bill.

Future Farmers of America, an organization of high school boys interested in vocational agriculture and the new George Deen vocational agriculture law recently passed by congress occupied most of the attention of Nebraska vocational agriculture teachers at their convention Thursday afternoon at the colleeg of agriculture.

C. A. Fulmer, state director of vocational education, said that the George Deen law will supersede the George-Ellzey law July 1, 1937. The new law will carry larger annual appropriations for vocational education, including agriculture and home economics education, and authorizes the placing of appropriations on a permanent basis and thus avoids the necessity of appropriations by special act at intervals of three years, as under the George-Ellzey law.

W. A. Ross, national executive secretary of the Future Farmers of America, said the F. F. A. is becoming a vital factor in the progress of agriculture and in the development of agricultural leadership. The organization now has 125,000 members in 47 states, Hawaii and Puerto Rico.

New officers for the eight districts of the vocational association were elected Thursday as follows:

District 1, L. E. Watson, Lewiston, chairman; Ralph Benton, Beatrice, secretary.

District 2, Glenn LeDioyt, Nehawka, chairman; David Engel, Milligan, secretary.

District 3, R. M. Kildee, West Point, chairman; Elton Reinmiller, Scribner, secretary.

District 4, Wayne Girardet, Albion, chairman and secretary.

District 5, John Davis, Scotia, chairman; Urban Wendorff, Broken Bow, secretary.

District 6, Herbert Yost, Gothenburg, chairman; Walter Blandin, Wilcox,, secretary.

District 7, Norris Enders, Stratton, chairman; E. Blandin, Oshkosh, secretary.

District 8, Wesley Antes, Rushville, chairman; Lowell Waldo, Gordon, secretary.

DICKSTEIN BILL APPROVED

Deportation of Aliens for Propaganda Proposed.

WASHINGTON. (AP). The house passed and sent to the senate the Dickstein bill which would authorize deportation proceedings against aliens who engaged in political activities or propaganda, "instigated from foreign sources," which would be subversive and contrary to the constitution.

GOOD, CLEAN CROPS.

"I never saw such fine crop prospects and such clean corn, except a few small areas where hail had fallen," said B. S. Keck, state highway inspector, farmer and former member of the legislature from Polk county, after he had finished a drive of 413 miles from Kimball thru the Platte valley to Grand Island and thence to Lincoln. "In the west considerable wheat was winter killed and the stand left is now heading out. The country is a sight for weary eyes and it makes me still a more firm believer in the doctrine of plenty instead of scarcity. As to safety of the highways, in all that trip I never saw a wreck or any action on the part of drivers that endangered life. I must say, however, that county and local officers in some counties stand idly by and watch drunken drivers get in their cars and go away without molestation. The drunken driver law is not enforced."

ODD FELLOWS ELECT.

BLOOMFIELD, Neb. (AP). A. E. Davison of Wayne was elected president of the Northeast Nebraska Odd Fellows association at a convention here. Wayne was selected for next year's meeting. Helen Linkart of Coleridge was elected president of the Rebecca lodge, which met in conjunction with the Odd Fellows.

Other new officers: Odd Fellows, O. S. Roberts of Wayne, vice president; George E. Lamberson of Wayne, secretary-treasurer. Rebecca: Florence Waggoner of Carroll, vice president; Nellie Jacobson of Randolph, warden; Mary Darland of Coleridge, secretary-treasurer.

CHAPTER ONE.

Society reporters and columnists called Gay Van Avery "the girl with the reddest hair, the bluest eyes, and the best figure in New York." And there was scarcely an edition that did not feature a photograph of her. Girls looked enviously at pictures of Gay in her startling evening clothes, her smart riding clothes, and at her sport clothes when she attended the races.

Usually a man was photographed with her. He was tall and handsome and his darkness contrasted admirably with Gay's vividness. The man was Alan Riggs whom Gay loved and to whom she was engaged.

Very often there was another figure with her. That was Macduff, the inky black, lovable little scottie. Macduff is a character you must remember.

There are three Van Averys you must meet. There is Diana, the mother, slim and beautiful and a true daughter of the aristocracy. There is Patti, her older daughter, spoiled, petulant with the face of an innocent child and eager little hands that reach out selfishly for everything she wants.

And there is Gay, fashioned by the Divine sculptor; Gay with a heart shaped mouth, a cap of red curls, and eyes as blue as the Italian sea; Gay, whose debut two years ago was the most publicized debut of any girl in the land, who inherited her dead father's courage and loyalty and who became the strength and balance of the little family when her father died.

It was autumn in New York and it was raining the day that Manhattan society turned out to witness the marriage of Patti to young and good looking Richard Miles.

The inspiring strains of the organ drifted into the anteroom of the church where the bridal party was assembled. Patti, a vision in white, fluttered nervously before the mirror, and a half dozen bridesmaids in blue dresses and wide hats fluttered about her. The drab room was fragrant with flowers and alive with excitement.

"Gay is the only cool one among us," said Lucia Baring. "Look at her."

And they all turned to look at Gay in her green dress and her short red curls escaping the sides of the broad brimmed hat.

From under the veil Patti's childish voice wailed. "Gay, are you sure everything has been packed? Oh, dear, what is Mother doing? Why isn't she here? I've probably left half my things behind! I'm going to miss you all so much! I don't know a soul in Washington and Richard's people are so stuffy! I don't want to go to Europe at all. I don't know," she cried in a broken whisper, "that I want to get married at all! I'm so young."

Lucia said, "Gay, for heaven's sake, say something to her! She's marrying a 'catch' and doesn't know it."

"I don't want to leave Mother and Gay," said Patti, daubing powder on her pert little nose. "I don't know how to do anything! I don't know the first thing about managing a house and servants! Do I," she asked, lifting her chin and looking at herself in the mirror, "look beautiful enough for half of New York to look at me?"

"Like an angel," said Bets Morrison.

Gay was thinking of Alan. He'd be in the church and her eyes would look everywhere for him. They'd stop their searching when she found him and they'd give him by their tenderness and warmth an unspoken message of her love. There was no one like Alan. There never had been since the night she had looked across the shoulder of the young man with whom she was dancing and, looking across a rosy lighted ballroom, she had seen a man for whom she had unconsciously been looking all her life. Alan was taller than anyone else, with dark eyes and a deep voice with a warm ring to it. Alan—who had loved a hundred women before that night.

When they were married, she thought, they'd have none of this fuss and excitement. No gaping people, no photographers, no elaborate reception. They'd just go off together and their wedding day would be their memory and not the memory of a thousand curious people. When she and Alan were married. . . The thought was like a breathless, beautiful song. . .

Diana, her mother, dressed in long blue velvet, came in, her young looking face flushed, her short, prematurely white hair like silk against her head. She had Macduff on a leash.

"Patti, darling, I knew you'd want to see Macduff again! Poor darling, he doesn't know what to make of all this!"

But Macduff, with wagging tail, went to Gay who picked him up in her arms and patted his head.

"In all this you've been neglected," she said. "It's all right, Mac."

Diana laughed. "Cecile found him under the bed and brought him. I told her she could hold him in the servants' pew. Are you all ready? I wonder if Richard is nervous. Jack Preston told me the bachelor party didn't break up until dawn." Her eyes were serious when she looked at Patti. Then, looking around, she said, "I wonder if you would mind going out for a few minutes. I want—I want to be with Gay and Patti alone before . . . before our little family is broken up."

The bridesmaids went out, their long dresses swishing.

Diana looked first at Gay with Mac in her arms. Then she looked at Patti in her wedding finery. And she was thankful that Patti did not know it had taken all their money to give her a lovely wedding. Patti would be in Paris soon with her husband. Gay would have to know today. Simpler to tell Gay. Her ingenious mind would plot some way out for them. Patti couldn't bear poverty. She wouldn't have to—now. But Gay and she. . .

Diana said, "You're lovely, Patti. I wish your father could see you today. He'd be proud." She went to Patti and kissed her. "I've never given my girls much advice, but be a good wife, darling. Don't complain. Co-operate and try to remember that Richard will have his side, too. Be faithful and be an inspiration and not a burden."

She looked at Gay. They were better friends than she and Patti had been. She had given so little advice to Gay who had an astonishing wisdom for her years. And she thought that Gay in her green dress was like a staunch, deep rooted young tree in her strength and honesty and beauty. She thought, "I'm her mother and yet she amazes me. Life wouldn't have been so smooth after Stephen's death if I had not had Gay. Soon I'll lose her to Alan. But they've so beautiful together, so right together, she and Alan. . . ."

And so Patti and Richard were married.

Walking down the aisle after the ceremony, Gay saw Alan. Other faces were obliterated—his stood out alone.

He smiled at her, Gay's red hair and the vivid colors she wore made other girls drab. He had not wanted to love her. He was cynical where love was concerned. Ambitious and rather poor but equipped with an impeccable family background and excellent education, he had set out to marry money. He had followed Lucia Baring, Gay's friend and an heiress, from Florida to New York to propose to her. And the same night he had seen Gay, wearing a blue dress. He hadn't been able to see Lucia after that. Like a man bewitched, he'd pursued Gay and, knowing he could not merely play at love with her, he had proposed at Christmas time in a room filled with the scent of holly and flowers. Her warm kiss had been her answer. And Alan's fears for their financial security were scattered when her father had said, "I want you two youngsters to be happy. I don't want you to scrape. Scraping poisons love. I'll give you an income that will keep you decently." On New Years day Stephen died from a heart attack, and Alan supposed, tho he had not asked, that Stephen had provided for his and Gay's security.

The wedding reception was in progress. Diana moved among her guests, a set mechanical smile curving her mouth. Richard and Patti were changing into traveling clothes. Macduff had scampered from the clamor to the solitude of under the bed. There was too much gayety and music and noise for Macduff.

In a corner of the room were Gay and Alan. She had taken off the big hat, and her red curls fitted her small proud head like an adorable cap.

"I've seen nothing of you for days," he said.

She put her hand on his shoulder and looked at him. There were times when she had to touch him to make herself believe he wasn't a myth that her young dreams had created. When she and Patti were little, Patti always said, "I want to be rich when I grow up." Gay had always said gravely, "I want to love someone terribly," and her young imagination had created a man that was Alan.

"It's over now," she said. "We can be together again."

"You're lovely, Gay."

"I want to be lovely only for you."

"Don't say such things and don't look at me like that. When am I going to see you again?"

She moved away. "Tea—tomorrow afternoon."

"I have serious business to discuss with you. Very serious, darling."

"You mean. . ."

"Our wedding," said Alan and she moved away and was caught up in a throng of people. But she was never lost in a throng, he thought. Her hair was too bright.

Our wedding, she thought. To live with Alan and never be separated from him. Never to say again, "Come tomorrow." Patti didn't love Richard with a song in her heart and an excitement that took her breath away and that touched such deep sensitive fibers in her that it brought tears glistening in her eyes.

Patti, in a brown and yellow suit, and Richard sailed that afternoon for a prolonged honeymoon in Europe. Gay thought, waving, "Patti got what she wanted—a rich man." Diana looked at Patti thru a veil of tears. "She won't have to face what Gay and I have to face. Patti is safe," and she shivered, not from the rain, but because she knew she was going back to the apartment that would be hers only a few days longer.

That night when the apartment was quiet and the servants had removed all traces of the gay bedlam of that afternoon, Diana called Gay to her sitting room.

Her mother looked tired, Gay thought, as she lay on the chaise-lounge. There were shadows beneath her eyes. Her small hand was nervous as she flipped the ashes from her cigaret.

The sitting room, decorated in green and pale lavender, had always been for Gay a room of solace and comfort. Small Gay, a plain little girl who had shown no promise of the beauty she would grow to be, had brought her problems to this room. "I won't dance with the Brice boy, Mother. He's horrid. What'll I do?" At 16 she had said, "I'm tired of parties, Mother. I'd like to go to camp and learn to swim well." At Christmas, the night Alan had asked her to marry him, she had come to this room again. "I know what love is, Mother. I'm not mistaken. I'm glad I didn't let other boys kiss me. I don't know why he loves me. He could love anybody."

Tonight she looked like a slim graceful boy in green pajamas and gold sandals.

Diana took a deep breath. "I hope you won't hate me for this, dear. I had to do it for Patti. I couldn't deny her what she's always wanted: a lovely wedding. I didn't spare anything." She sighed. "She can't face grim reality, Gay, but you and I must. That's why I waited until she was married to tell you that—that there isn't any money left."

Gay's eyes were fearful and she hated her doubts and fears for Alan that leaped into her mind. Everything—gone? It was incredible! They had always had so much!

"I don't want to sound selfish or mercenary," she said, low, "but father promised Alan and me . . ."

"I know," said Diana, "but the stocks and other securities he promised you are worth nothing." She uttered a little cry. "Oh, darling, it's not fair that Patti should have everything! I've been tortured by that! It's not fair!" She bit her lip and said soberly, "You don't think that Alan would . . ."

"No! Of course not. But he—he doesn't like being poor any more than Patti does." She stroked her mothers' hand. "Don't worry. We'll manage."

"We don't know what it is to be poor. Your father gave us everything. He made snobs of us."

"Poor mother. All your gayety was superficial . . ."

"I didn't want to spoil anything for Patti." She sat up. "We'll have to sell everything and move to a small place. Oh, how you hate this, Gay!"

"I'll get a job."

"I've let you down so badly," said Diana. "If Alan loves you . . ."

"Oh, he does," she defended and smiled wanly. "You're very tired. Get some sleep. I'll think of something. We'll pull out of this together. Keep your chin up, darling."

Back in her own room, her brave words mocked her. She wasn't brave! She was a snob!

There was no sleep for her that night. When the dawn ushered in another dismal rainy day, she was sitting in a chair by the window with a silk coverlet over her knees. Alan—oh, she mustn't doubt him! He'd do the decent thing! He loved her. It was in his eyes, his voice, his touch. Oh, everything would be all right!

She had had Macduff out for a walk that afternoon in the dreary rain. When she came into the drawing room, Alan got up and Diana left the room.

Gay pulled off her brown hat. Her red curls were damp.

"I can't drink tea," he aid, "and make polite conversation. Your mother has just told me."

Diana wanted to spare her the painful explanation!

She bit back the tears. She could not bear his pity!

"I had no idea," said Alan, "that things were so bad with your father."

He fumbled for a cigaret and lighted it. She was so lovely! How could he tell her? He had made himself the center of her existence, and Gay's love was not the superficial love that most girls had. It touched deep roots with her. Pulling up roots was a painful business . . . .

Her dark lashes were unsteady. He said, "It isn't fair to ask you to share what little I have. You'd hate it, Gay. You've been used to everything. I couldn't bear that what has passed between us during the months of our engagement should be tarnished with poverty. And poverty does things to people who love each other . . ."

What was he saying? Alan, don't say it! She looked up, startled.

"I don't think I understand."

He looked away. "We'd be unhappy if we were poor."

She walked away and her nerves felt stretched across the great emptiness in her. Let me be sane, she thought!

She stood very still. Her lashes fluttered but her mouth was tight.

"You've put it very nicely," she said. "Don't be afraid. I won't hold you to your promise. I wouldn't mind being poor with you, Alan. I'd work and do anything just to be with you."

And yesterday they had loved each other so much! Yesterday she would not have believed that today they would be looking at each other over a chasm of broken promises!

"I love you," he said, "but I don't love you enough to be poor with you."

"Then you never loved me at all."

"But I want to see you again."

She looked at him. "You won't like the little place we'll live in. I'll be different—as a working girl."

"I'll always love you, Gay."

"It would be easier if you hated me." She lowered her head. Don't cry, she thought. Don't use your tears as a weapon to bring him back. "Please—please go now. Don't come again, Alan." She walked to the window, her back to him. "Goodbye. I don't want to see you leave, knowing I'll never see you again."

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

M'INTYRE

NEW YORK.—Thoughts while strolling: What's become of all the colors we used to know—greens, browns and blues? For instance—the new summer shades: Pago, copper, henna, toasty willow. Add imperial looking ladies: Mrs. Jane Tibbett. For political oblivion—the fellow Zioncheck.

For the Look the Same as They Did 15 Years Ago club: Harry Staton. How tacky the avenue grows! Babe Ruth has taken retirement with a becoming grace. Imagine England tolerating some of our crooked judges. Always a glamour about a Pullman porter. What became of Gandhi?

Title for a short story: "A Blind Date at 80." No matter how they twist the dime receiver on buses, conductors always hold it wrong. Those curious inspecting couples on the avenue after nightfall. Not rural window shoppers, but dress designers swiping ideas.

That angry desperate way women in hat shops jerk off the one they don't like. And never a farewell glance. No sound more soothing than the far away click of wood on wood in a bowling alley. The next longest ear rings in the world are worn by Inez Haynes Irwin.

Mrs. Belloc-Lowndes sounds as tho she might be made of jelly. And she's a ringer for Victoria. The Times says Annabelle Lee is a must know poem. It's the maudlinest ever written. Zez he.

Fifth avenue's conservative merchants who are in the majority are becoming increasingly concerned over the fly by night racketeers who take over empty stores and give them a bannered blatancy that suggests the deep Bowery. Mostly they are "linen stores," and never are the names of the owners displayed. The customer has no recourse if dissatisfied. Anyway, they seldom remain more than a few weeks. Their windows display the high grade established article. But they are only for the windows—the stuff on sale is shoddy.

And Park avenue had a duck fit over the possibility of a movie house in an arcade planned for the fabulous 50's. Application for a license has been denied after round robins of protests were circulated among tenants in the surrounding buildings. Park avenue believes one movie like the speck in the barrel of apples means quick decay. It is already thinly flecked with vulgar trade.

Being a small property owner on Park avenue I am for that reason alone opposed to commercial invasion. But secretly I am for living over a store, next door to a movie or even a marathon dance hall. I never visit the lower East Side without a wince of envy for those placid, window leaning figures above the shops. From the sidewalk there is generally visible a canary. And on the window ledge a white poodle several weeks in bath arrears. The battle door and shuttlecock talk from window to window is always pitched in exciting tempo. Tots dash about in screaming play until midnight. No community living seems more fun. More of give and take. Everything external and child like.

The push boys who weave in and out of the garment center traffic in the 30's with their roller truck scooters piled high with bundles and racked with gowns are the most nimble of death defiers. Like a flash they can scoot thru incredible spaces. Altho they number in hundreds the mortality rate is almost nil. They are paid around $30 a week. And many of them have become big dress merchants.

Bo McMillin's Indiana U Eleven Signs For Game Here In 1938

I May Be Wrong

By JOHN BENTLEY

WALTER WHITTEN offers two items under the heading of Country Club Backwash:

George L. Towne plopped one out of the clover-morning glory patch at the left of No. 18 fairway to see it bounce into the cup for a birdie three. Witnesses: L. W. Chase and John Agee.

With regard to that famous "Praying Foursome" which has been playing golf together some 25 years:

The day before Jasper "Paul Bunyan" Clarke established the all time hometown record of nine balls out of bounds on one round in the state tournament, the locally renowned "Praying Foursome" was fighting its wordy way over the Country club course. Art Raymond was nearly overcome on No. 5 tee when he discovered Bob Joyce playing a new 75 cent ball for the pitch to the green near the lake. Joyce made the green and not the lake as Art and Herb Gooch and C. B. Towle prayed. Going down to the green Art walked with a new boy carrying for Joyce and suggested that the lad should warn Bob of the danger of hitting the new ball into the lake in front of No. 6 tee. He said the boy should suggest the use of an old ball, which the lad unwittingly did. Joyce was so intent on getting his par 3 on No. 5 that did not clearly remember what the boy had said and so on leaving the green he called him back for a private interview. The lad repeated the warning.

"Huh," said Joyce and teed up his new ball which he promptly put in the lake, followed with another and then it occurred to him that he did not clearly remember walking down the hill and talking with his caddy before the lad had approached him with the warning.

After conceding the sixth hole, the eminent toastmaster operated on Mr. Raymond and the innocent but no less joyful Mr. Gooch and Mr. Towle. And that shows how temperamental good golfers are, and more than that, it shows how golf matches are won and lost.

INDIANA'S Don Lash who stunned the track world by running 2 miles in 8 minutes 53.3, breaking Paavo Nurmi's five year old record, doesn't care if the Olympic program doesn't contain a two mile race.

In its absence, or anything approximating this distance, Lash will move up to the 5,000 meters, which will cause him to run three miles, 188 yards, 4½ inches.

"It's just as easy," Lash avers. "In fact, I prefer the longer distance and would rather run 10,000 meters, but they say my best chance is at 5,000 meters so I will concentrate on that."

American coaches are predicting that Lash, before he hangs up his spikes, will deprive the famous Finn distance runners of all their records.

Lash's performances indicate that Uncle Sam may win a distance race at Berlin, which will mark the first time that any United States athlete has ever taken an Olympic championship between 1,500 meters and the marathon.

HOOSIERS COME HERE THREE YEARS IN ROW STARTING THIS FALL

Had Previously Signed for Two Battles on Memorial Sod.

1938 SLATE ABOUT SET

BY WALTER E. DOBBINS.

Signing a contract with the University of Indiana for a game on Memorial stadium sod in 1938 which brings Bo McMillin's colorful Hoosier eleven here three consecutive years, was announced by Coach Bible Friday morning.

BO McMILLIN

Indiana will play here this fall, the inaugural of the series being scheduled with the Big Ten team on Oct. 17 following the Minnesota U game at Minneapolis.

The Hoosiers will also come here in 1937.

Indiana, under McMillin, former Kansas State coach, is expected to cut quite a figure in Western conference circles next fall. The Hoosiers have improved steadily under McMillin's guidance, using the same shift that played havoc with Big Six teams when Bo was at the Wildcat helm.

Coach Bible indicated that the 1938 grid slate was nearly complete and that he would make announcement of the slate within two weeks. The 1937 schedule has already been published.

RED LINKS OVERCOME KERNEL HITTERS, 12-11

Costly Mitchell Errors Aid in Rally in Ninth for Fourth in Row.

MITCHELL, S. D.—Mitchell's Kernels outhit the Red Links, 14 to 11, here Thursday night but lost their second straight game 12 to 11. Six costly blunders, three of them in the ninth inning gave the Links their winning margin. Both teams entered the ninth inning with eight runs to their credit, the Links fashioning four counters out of two bingles and three bungles, while the Kernels saw their desperate rally cut short at three runs.

Tackelson, Mitchell's freshman pitcher, was removed in the fifth after he had been nicked by a four run attack climaxed by Simons circuit clout. Torasson was jerked in the sixth after the Kernels scored one run and loaded the sacks. Rossbach and Tarantola finished the battle.

The Kernels scored four runs in the first inning on two doubles, two singles and a quartet of stolen bases. Masters smashed a home run over the left field fence in the fourth after Lincoln counted two on an error single and outfield fly in the same frame.

Lincoln jumped into the lead in the fifth by scoring four runs on five clean blows but dropped behind in the sixth when the Kernels scored three on three bingles a pass and an outfield fly. Streich and Barnhart scored for Lincoln in the seventh knotting the count at 8 all. Tarantola mixed hits with strikeouts in the last of the ninth after the Links hand wound up their four run rally. He fanned Green for the final out after the Kernels counted three runs. Summary:

Joe and Max Weigh in for Bout.

A couple of brief "hellos" was the only conversation that passed between Max Schmeling (on scales) and Joe Louis as they met at the New York Hippodrome to be weighed in for their heavyweight fight at Yankee stadium, postponed a few minutes later until June 19 because of rain. Louis tipped the scales at 198 for a six pound advantage over the former heavy weight champion, whose weight was officially recorded as 192 pounds.—AP photo.

PAUL AMEN NAMED ON OLYMPIC BALL SQUAD

Sportsman, Powers to Play Game Monday to Raise Funds for Trip.

Paul Amen, Nebraska U. athlete, and first baseman on Skipper Pug Griffin's Sportsman Cafe nine, Friday was named a member of the U. S. Olympic baseball squad representing the mid-west district. He will report to the Olympic squad at Baltimore, Md., July 1.

PAUL AMEN

He will compete for a place on the squad that will represent the United States in the Olympics at Berlin. Graydon Smith, Oakdale, Neb., pitcher, withdrew from the competition in the state to sign a professional contract with Norfolk, Cliff Cunningham, state commissioner for the American baseball congress, sponsors of the team, announced.

In hopes of raising funds to send Amen abroad Manager Griffin's Sportsman club and Johnny Bretzer's Powers will play at Landis field Monday night in a regular scheduled City loop game, the entire proceeds going toward paying the Lincoln player's $60 entry fee. A 15 cent admission will be charged. The game will start at 8:30 p. m.

Amen is a former all around Lincoln high school athlete where he played football, basketball and baseball. He was a member of the football and basketball squads at Nebraska U. last season, his sophomore year, and was regular first baseman on Wilbur Knight's Husker baseball squad.

He is a first baseman, bats and throws left handed and has been a consistent .300 hitter both in college and city league ranks.

SCHMELING, LOUIS TO SCRAP IT OUT FRIDAY IF WEATHER PERMITS

Brown Bomber's Stock Goes Even Higher on Eve of Stadium Battle.

TICKETS MOVING SLOWLY

FIGHT TO GO ON.

NEW YORK. (UP). The Joe Louis-Max Schmeling heavyweight fight will be held Friday night "unless it is raining pitchforks at 8 p. m." Promoter Mike Jacobs announced.

BY GEORGE KIRKSEY.

NEW YORK. (UP). The strange fistic extravaganza which headlines Joe Louis of Detroit—the man who can't lose—against Max Schmeling of Germany—the man who can't win—will take place Friday night in Yankee stadium, weather permitting, after a 24 hour postponement because of rain.

The international heavyweight bout, scheduled for 15 rounds between the 22 year old Negro who, they say, can't miss becoming champion, and the 30 year old German who once held the title, is likely to go on Friday night. The weather bureau promised fair weather and moderate temperature. If a second postponement should be necessary, the bout will be held Saturday afternoon in opposition to a crucial ball game across the Harlem river between the New York Giants and St. Louis Cardinals.

If Promoter Mike Jacobs, who is becoming as touchy as a hen guarding her flock because of the many difficulties he has encountered in this promotion, does not get the fight on Friday night, the sports writers may ridicule it right out of Yankee stadium. To the journalistic profession the fight has become a "legal execution."

Postponements usually are detrimental to gate receipts but Promoter Jacobs insists that Thursday's delay will help the gate. Altho Jacobs refused to divulge the extent of the advance sale, it was learned on semiofficial source that it is between $550,000 and $600,000.

Louis Weighs 198.

A liberal forecast places the probable attendance at 70,000 and the gross gate at $750,000. Louis and Schmeling each will receive 30 percent of the net gate, which is likely to be about $600,000, or nearly $200,000 each.

With the weighing-in ceremony and physical examinations accomplished Thursday, the two fighters will not face each other again until they meet in the ring Friday night at 10 p. m. (e. d. t.) Louis scaled 198, Schmeling 192. The Brown Bomber's weight was a surprise, but he is likely to come in the ring weighing about 202. Trainer Jack Blackburn estimated he would pick up at least four pounds because of the postponement.

Louis weighed 199¼ for Max Baer, 199¾ for Charley Retzlaff, 200½ for Paulino Uzcudun, and 198½ for King Levinsky. Blackburn said he has purposely dried him out to bring him under 200.

Despite Schmeling's failure to crack in the presence of Louis at Thursday's weighing-in the Brown Bomber remained a 10-1 betting favorite to win and a 3-1 favorite to score a k. o. Even money was quoted that the German don't come up for the eighth round. With no Schmeling money in sight, the fight probably will set an all time low for betting on a major bout.

Both fighters spent a comfortable night, their managers reported Friday. Schmeling, who was registered at a downtown hotel, slipped away to a friend's estate on Long Island to spend the night. He slept about 12 hours, arising at 9 a. m. to eat a light breakfast and go for a walk. Joe Jacobs, his manager, said the German would eat his dinner about 3 o'clock and then come in to New York to rest at his hotel until time to go to the arena.

Louis retired at 9 o'clock Thursday night, but did not go to sleep until after 10. He did not arise until late in the morning.

Postponement Expected to Boom Last Minute Ticket Sales for Big Fight

Schmeling's Chances Are Much Slimmer as Hour of Battle Nears.

BY HENRY M'LEMORE.

NEW YORK. (UP). Putting the sports shot here and there: There was a dollar bill for Mike Jacobs in every one of those raindrops which pelted New York Thursday and forced a postponement of the Schmeling-Louis fight, for it gave the promoter another 24 hours in which to peddle the some $300,000 worth of pasteboards he still has on his racks . . . The postponement isn't calculated to help Schmeling's chances, however, for the German, despite all the talk of his stolidity, gets excited as a bride at fight time, and will probably go to the post worn by nervousness . . . To Louis, of course, it meant only another good night's sleep . . . The Brown Bomber, by the way, has received dozens of letters from Germany urging that he flatten Max in one round . . .

Who knows but what the "counterfeit scare" which sent G-men scurrying to Harlem in search of bogus fight tickets, did not have its genesis in the mind of one of Promoter Jacobs' publicists? . . . With a counterfeit report abroad customers would be inclined to purchase their ducats directly from the offices of M. Jacobs . . . Among the customers at the fight, when it is held, will be a scattering of "gorillas" whose business it is to prevent the taking of unofficial pictures of the fight . . .

That they are necessary was proved in Tex Rickard's day when a band of "camera bootleggers" was caught trying to snap the Dempsey-Carpenter fight with a long distance lens thru the knothole of an abandoned water tank . . . If Schmeling draws down an expected $200,000 for his end of the fight, his eight-year ring earnings will approximate $1,500,000, a figure topped only by the winnings of Dempsey, Tunney, and—of all people—Jack Sharkey.

Paul Dean, who, unlike his brother Jerome, can keep his mouth closed in a pinch, is one of the Cardinals' top-ranking poker players . . . Charlie Gelbert's St. Louis teammates call him Goldberg . . . Nobody knows why . . . Lon Warneke, Cubs' ace pitcher, is a superb knitter and makes himself a pair of socks a week . . . Pitcher Charlie Root buys his chewing tobacco in squares the size of a loaf of bread . . . But they don't taste as good and are not worth hoarding for a week end raisin pudding . . . Smiling Jimmy Hennigan, the marathoner who has turned pro because he needs the dough, figures he has covered 25,000 miles in 27 years of competitive and preparatory running . . . Taxi, please! . . . Parimutuel wagering on horse races is now legal in 15 of our sovereign states . . . They are Arkansas, California, Florida, Illinois, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Ohio, Rhode Island, South Dakota, Texas, Washington and West Virginia . . . If the remainder of the states were as liberal and as interested in improving the breed of thorobreds I could finish this column of notes right now.

Bob Grove has been given power of attorney, or something like that, to send himself to the showers when he feels a game slipping out of control . . . Whether he really needs a shower or not . . . Lawson Little is a camera nut and spends more time pasting in pictures than clippings . . . Sing Sing's 1936 football prospects received a body blow with the announceemnt that John Law, the old Notre Damer who organized the first "black sheep" team at Ossining, was resigning from the prison staff . . . There is no agitation for an alumni coach . . .

POWERS ADD SIXTH VICTORY TO STRING

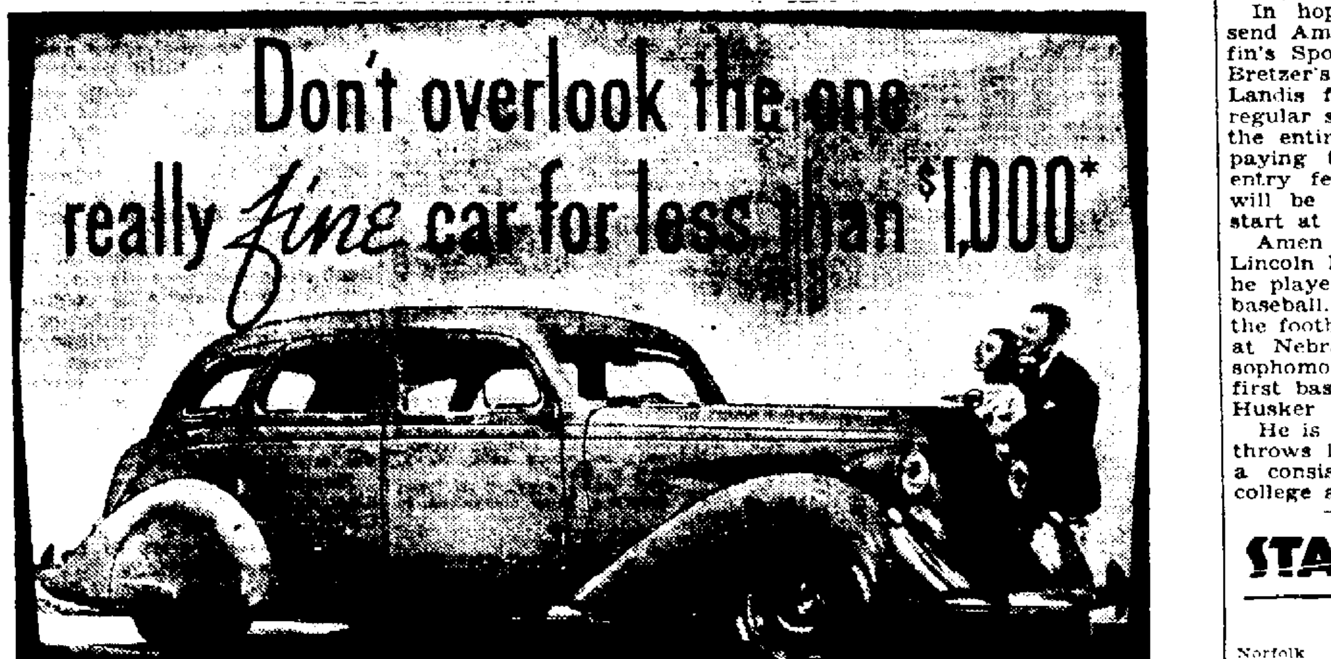

Iowa Nebraska took another step toward the undisputed leadership of the City league race Thursday night, lambasting three Hardy pitchers for 12 hits and a 10 to 2 victory, their sixth straight against no losses. It was the second defeat of the week for the Furnitures and shoved them deeper into the basement. None of the Hardy pitching trio was able to halt the Power bat attack.

John Bretzer's hands will meet Woodmen Accident in a playoff Friday night to conclude the week's schedule. The Accidents, who moved from a tie for third into second place this week, are the only team to tie the Powers, but even a victory over the league leaders would fall short of bringing them the leadership in their week's rampage. NEW YORK. (AP). It was a "hit-or-miss" stock market with the misses being in the majority. Early selling of the steel leaders put a crimp in trading sentiment. Support appeared later for selected issues and a number of these were up fractions to a point or so around the fourth hour.

Favorable earnings and hopes of dividend increases gave another lift to Philip Morris and Zenith Radio. Improvement was also registered by Chrysler, American Can, Liggett & Myers "B," Standard Oil of Indiana, U. S. Pipe & Foundry, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Loew's, Union Pacific and Chesapeake & Ohio.

American Telephone backed up 2 points on threats of a rate cut for its New York subsidiary. Among lesser losers were U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Western Union, Radio, Consolidated Edison, American Water Works, Westinghouse, Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, Wilson & Co., Johns-Manville, Greyhound Corp., U. S. Smelting, American Smelting, Parker Rust Proof, Santa Fe, N. Y. Central and Southern Pacific.

Bonds were irregular. Foreign gold currencies stiffened as thhe Frenc finance minister announced theh franc would not be devalued. Wheat turned strong on crop reports. Cotton was higher.

While emphasis was still being placed on pleasing business news, Wall street evidenced nervousness over the new corporation tax bill. Many brokrage customers, therefore, joined the "wait-and-see" contingent on the theory that share prices should retrace some of their recently gaind ground.

In view of the fact that steel mills operations are at the highest level in several years, analysts were somewhat puzzled by the dip in the principal stocks of this industry. The thought was advanced, however, that rumors—already denied—of wage increases and a consequent lowering of earnings may have had their effect.

The apparent subsiding of bonus bond cashing put a damper on the store stocks altho, in the long run, these are expected to benefit substantially from payments to the veterans.

The rails were unexcited by the freight loadings report for last week which disclosed a more than seasonal decline from the previous week. The aggregate was considerably above the corresponding period last year.

Most of the power shares indicated reluctance of owners to part with them at sizeable concessions. With electric consumption making pronounced strides toward new peaks, some believed a number of the utility companies will record excellent profit showings the remainder of the year.

Holders of merchandising stocks read with satisfaction the week-end review of Dun & Bradstreet which pointed out that retail sales during the week bore more heavily to the brisk side as preparations proceeded for a broadening of activity during the early summer months.

The review said that most seasonal lines shared in the advance. More progress in fall buying was noted in the wholesale field, altho volume here held close to that of the preceding week.

Other surveys estimated department store sales in May recorded a year-to-year increase of 12 percent, chain store distribution was up 15 percent, and mail order turnover gained nearly 30 percent.

Industrial operations, on the other hand, showed signs of tapering off slowly, altho recessions in several instances have thus far been less than seasonal.

The French franc, at the beginning of foreign exchange transactions, was .00¼ of a cent improved at 6.58½ cents, and sterling was unchanged at $5.03.

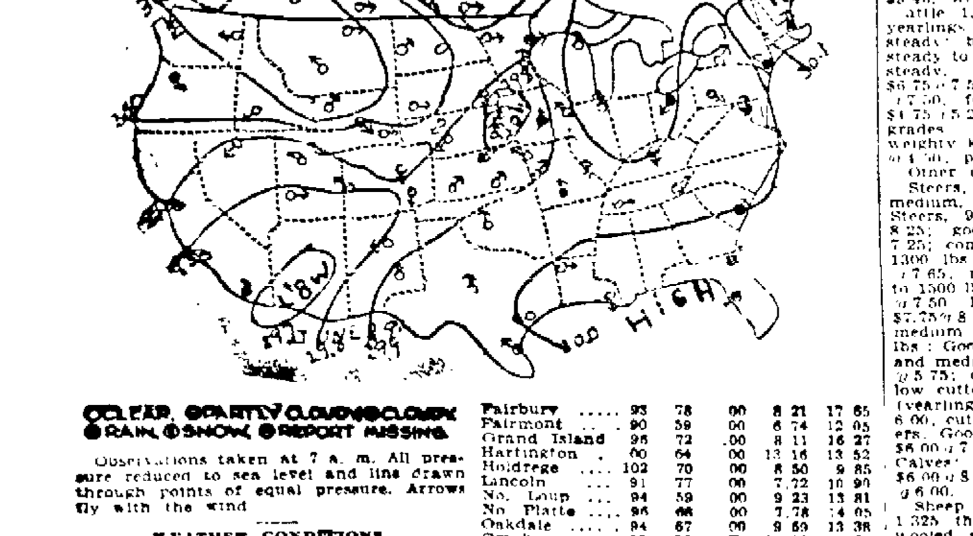

Retail Trade Improves.

NEW YORK. (AP). Trade movements bore more heavily to the brisk side this week as preparations proceeded for broadening activities during the summer months, the weekly review of Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., said. Retail business widened the rate of gains over 1935, with most seasonal lines expanding. Better shopping weather gave consumer buying its chief list, the survey found. In wholesale lines fall buying progressed well, with difficulties reported in securing immediate delivery on some items, altho the total turnover in this division held close to the levels of the preceding week. At retail, purchases in leading cities were said to be topping 1935 figures by 5 to 8 percent, causing estimators to place the probable totals for the entire country at some 10 to 15 percent to the good.

Drygoods.

NEW YORK (AP). Cotton gray goods continued in active demand at stronger prices. Finished cottons were advanced on many lines and sales were heavy. Rayon fabrics were in active demand. Raw silk was unchanged. Silk fabrics were moved well. Wool goods sales were better. Burlap held quiet with prices steady.

GRAIN NOTES.

CHICAGO. (AP). Discouraging news from the Dakota-Montana wheat producing area continued to come in from crop observers to dealers and traders here.

Mrs. E. H. Miller, in a report to James Bennett & Co., from Devil's Lake, N. D., says: "From Bismarck to Minot, the wheat crop is almost a total failure. Probably 15 percent will make some wheat under favorable conditions. From Minot east, wheat improves, but is spotty."

R. O. Cromwell, in a wire to Lamson Bros from Poplar, Mont., says: "From Minot to Poplar the wheat crop is standing still. For 180 miles half of the wheat acreage was stubbled in."

"Wheat in northwestern North Dakota still holds its promise of a week ago," H. C. Donovan wired Thomson and Mckinnon. "If all goes well from now on there will be a three-quarters crop."

Harvey S. Williams of Harris Upham & Co., attributes broadening trade in corn to dry weather complaints, an active shipping demand and persistent light country offerings. J. S. Bache & Co., called attention to the increase in the livestock population and the favorable corn hog ratio.

A report to a local house says there is a "lot of wonderful wheat" around Salina and Newton, Kas. Kansas farmers were reported storing a large majority of wheat instead of "selling freely."

Earnings.

NEW YORK. (AP). Wayne Pump company reported consolidated net profit of $508,057 before federal taxes, for the six months ended May 31, equivalent to $2.78 a share on the capital stock. This compares with $119,063, before federal taxes, or 71 cents a share for the six months ended May 31, 1935.

WHEAT PRICES STAGE SENSATIONAL UPTURN

Chicago Wheat Closes 4 1-2 Cents Up—Kansas City, Minneapolis Up 5.

CHICAGO. (AP). Official confirmation of critical conditions of United States spring wheat crops pushed prices up Friday afternoon to around highest limits allowed in any one day.

Both in Minneapolis and Kansas City, the actual maximum limit was reached, a rise of 5 cents a bushel. In Chicago, the extreme upturn was 4¾ cents.

Tumultous buying was increased in the late dealings owing to anxiety as to domestic winter wheat as well as spring being damaged by dry hot winds.

Wheat in Chicago closed flurried 3¾ to 4½ cents above Thursday's finish, July 91⅝@91¾, Sept. 92¾@92⅞. Corn 2⅛ to 3 cents up, Sept. 63⅜@63½. Oats 1⅛ to 1½ advanced, and provisions showing 12 to 20 cents gain.

Statements from trained observers said that for 160 miles from the Montana line eastward in North Dakota the probable maximum yield this season would only amount to seed back or at best three bushels an acre. Another report was that out of three-quarters of a million acres of spring wheat in Montana 20 precent would not oe worth harvesting, 50 percent would yield but 3 to 4 bushels, and 30 percent a maximum of 12 to 15. Other authoritative advices from various counties in the Dakotas told of wheat fields ranging from past redemption to a condition of but 30 percent of normal.

Under such circumstances, and with Thursday's forecast pointing to rainless skies continuing Friday night and Saturday in spring crop states, wheat prices rose wildly at times to upward of 3½ cents above Thursday's finish. Big general purchasing received added stimulus from the fact that the Liverpool market instead of declining as expected more than a cent closed with a rise of more than that amount. Assertions were also current that no one now looked for Kansas winter wheat to make an exceptional fill and that late fields would suffer shrinkage.

One of the foremost Chicago specialists said that the United States spring wheat crop had already passed the stage of collapse, and each day now of drouth and heat added to the irreparable damage done. Provisions advanced with hog values and with grains.

LIVESTOCK

CHICAGO. (AP). Hog and cattle prices continued on the upward trend as receipts contracted. Most hog sales were made at steady to 10 cents higher prices and the top reached $10.40, highest since early May.

The general cattle trade was steady to strong, packers and order buyers taking requirements agresssively. Best heifers sold at $8.50 and a few light weight steers were quoted at $7.50 to $8.40. Other classes showed little change.

Lambs and sheep were around steady with most of the 4,000 head supply billed direct. The early top for native spring lambs was $11.50. Sheep receipts in the open market are running about the lowest in the memory of many traders.

The hog market has had slightly smaller numbers this week but the volume still is above a year ago. To date receipts totaled 64,217 head against 67,000 for the same period last week and 62,000 a year ago. The cattle run is also smaller than last week and this has aided the upturn in live prices.

NEW YORK CURB

NEW YORK. (AP). Increased offerings of curb stocks Friday carried the scales off center and losses ranged from fractions to around 2 points.

Axton Fisher "A" was sold in fair volume and reacted more than 2 points to lead the late morning decline. Gulf Oil, Pittsburgh & Lake Erie and Aluminum Company of America sustained setbacks of about a point.

Mining and utility shares moved off fractions, while industrials and specialties maintained about unchanged levels. Standard Oil of Ohio resumed its advance of Thursday and stood nearly a point higher. Great Atlantic & Pacific also furnished one of the few bright spots by advancing a major fraction.

Range of recent years:

	1936	1935	1934	1933

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK (AP). Cotton futures opened steady, 5 points advance to 1 decline on trade buying of July and liquidation of new crop positions which partly offset higher Liverpool cables. July, 11.93; October, 11.36; December, 11.32; January, 11.29; March, 11.30; May, 11.32. Trading was moderately active at the start and interest seemed to center on the July position which sold up to 12.00 after the call or 10 points net higher. The demand was supplied by brokers supposed to be operating for the pool who were later sellers of July at 11.95. They were credited with disposingof about 20,000 bales during the first 15 minutes of business. New crop positions after selling at net gains of 3 to 8 points which carried prices back to about the high levels of last Wednesday reacted several points from the best. The quick bulge in the price of July to the 12.00 level represented the first time 12.00 futures have appeared on the quotation board here since November 1935. The near month strength seemed to be attracting increased comment with pool liquidation supposed to be nearing completion. October sold up to 11.43 on the early demand and was ruling around 11.37 at the end of the first hour when active months were about 1 to 5 points net higher.

New York Sugar.

NEW YORK (AP). Raw sugar was quiet steady and prices were unchanged at 3.78 for spots with no sales reported. Futures opened unchanged to 1 point higher but eased off after the call under increased trade and commission house liquidation. Selling seemed to be principally in Sept. which declined from 2.86 to 2.83, or 2 points net lower while later deliveries were 1 point net lower. Jan and March changed hands at 2.58. Covering and Cuban support checked the decline at these levels and the market at mid-day was a little steadier but still about 1 to 2 points net lower. Refined was unchanged at 5.00 for fine granulated with moderate withdrawals reported.

Boston Wool.

BOSTON. (AP). (U. S. Dept. Agr.) Occasional sales were being closed on medium grade fleece wools. Country graded ⅜ and ¼ blood average to good and Michigan wool brought around 37 cents in the grease, delivered east, for mixed lots. Most grades of Ohio fleeces were slow. Average to good twelve months Texas wool continued to have some call at 85@87 cents scoured basis.

Omaha Hay.

OMAHA. (UP). Alfalfa: Choice leafy, $11.00; No. 1, $10.00@10.50; standard leafy, $8.50@9.00; standard, $8.00; No. 2, $7.00@7.50, No. 3, $6.50. Upland prairie, No. 1, $9.50, No. 2, $8.00@8.50, No. 3, $7.00. Midland prairie: No. 1, $8.50@9.00, No. 2, $7.00@7.50. Mixed prairie, No. 1, $9.00; No. 2, $7.00@7.50. Mixed hay: No. 1, $9.50; No. 2, $8.00@8.50; No. 3, $7.00. Straw, Oats, $650; wheat, $5.00.

Gasoline Prices.

TULSA (UP). Gasoline, cents per gallon, U. S. Motor, 62 oct and below (3rd grade) 4⅜@5. U. S. Motor, 63-70 oct 5⅜@5⅝. U. S. Motor, 68-70 oct, (reg), 6@6⅛. 60-62, 400 grade, 62 oct, and below 4⅞@5. 63-70, 5⅜@5⅝. 68-70, 6@6⅛. 64-66, 375, 5@5¼. 68-70, 350, 5⅛@5¼.

New York Dried Fruits.

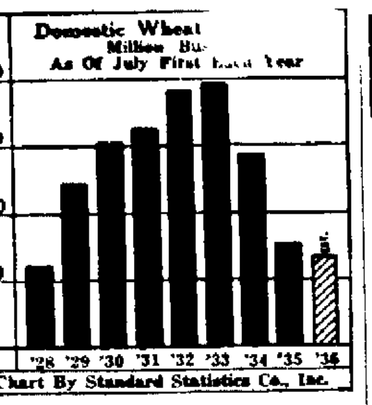

NEW YORK (AP). Dried fruits steady unchanged.

Bar Silver.

NEW YORK (AP). Bar silver steady and unchanged at 44⅞c.

Chicago Cash Provisions.

CHICAGO (AP). Lard, tierces, 10.57, loose, 10.00, bellies, 13.40.

The estimated carryover of wheat at the end of June is smaller than any for year since 1928 in spite of this condition, and even tho a subnormal crop is in prospect, the prospective yield, added to the carryover, will be more than sufficient to meet domestic requirements. There need be little concern over a shortage of wheat for next season.

STEAMER FROM THE MOUNTAINS. The S. S. Gen. Frank M. Coxe was built in the mountainous country of Charleston, W. Va., by the Ward Engineering Works, on the Kanawha river. Likewise, her sister ship, the Gen. John M. Hyde. Upon completion of the ships, it was found that their drafts of 10½ feet would not permit them to be floated to the gulf in low water, so they were tied to the river bank awaiting the spring high waters. During the tieups a 4 inch natural gas line was ingeniously connected to the ships to furnish heat, power and light.

BONDS

NEW YORK. (AP). Italian obligations added substantially to their recent gains as the domestic bond list moved indecisively.

The early trading reflected a slackening of buying interest in the general run of corporate ratings. Advances of the week also appeared to prompt some realizing. The result was a fair number of fractional declines in rail and utility groups.

U. S. Governments continued in supply at a moderately lower range. Treasury 3s were steady, with the rest unchanged to 6-32ds of a point lower.

Italian governments rose 1⅝ points in the first hour as France added her antisanctions decisions to Britain's. Rome 6½s and Milan City 1½ were 1 and 2 higher respectively. Lombard electric 7s gained around 3.

Loans of American Foreign Power, Baltimore & Ohio, St. Paul, Erie, International Telephone, Missouri Pacific, North American Co., and Southern Railway were among those yielding fractions. Slightly higher prices were paid for Canadian Pacific Debentures, Chile Copper 5s, Goodyear 5s, Great Northern 4½s and Illionis Central 4¾s.

URGES DOMESTIC MARKET

Acting AAA Head Wants Farmers to Concentrate.

URBANA, Ill. (AP). H. R. Tolley, acting administrator of the AAA, urged farmers to concentrate their attention on the domestic market. To the American Institute of cooperation, Tolley said international trade generally was increasing slowly, and added: "But we (AAA) leaders can not fulfill our trust to the farmers by giving our moral sanction to a hysterical frenzy over farm imports which, while higher than in 1932, have been in a large part due to the drouth and have been less than the 10-year average preceding 1932.

"We know that if the farmers permit their attention to be focussedon these imports, which hove an almost negligible effect on their economic position, they are likely to fal to do the things for themselves which would really count.

"We urge farmers to reject the unsound course and follow the sound one: to make the most of the home market by rejecting the unsound policy of complete exclusionism and supporting sound measures that will build up consumer purchasing power; and to build up the foreign market by rejecting unsound export subsidy proposals and following sane and realistic policies of two-way trade."

SINCLAIR DECLARES ROOSEVELT SUPPORT

Founder of EPIC-Democrat Movement Not to Aid Third Party.

PASADENA, Calif. (Copyright by UP). Upton Sinclair, who nominally opposed President Roosevelt in the California primary last month, threw his support behind the president's campaign for reelection.

The gray-haired author who founded the EPIC-democrat movement in California denied any interest in affiliating with the Townsend-Coughlin third-party movement.

"I am supporting President Roosevelt for re-election and have no interest in third party movements this year, except as they may be able to help elect senators and congressmen," Sinclair said.

The liberal author did not amplify how he would express his interest in third party activities for election of senators and congressmen.

Sinclair's endorsement of President Roosevelt was his first political statement since he voluntarily retired from leadership of his "EPIC" organization following defeat in the state primaries.

During the primary campaign Sinclair sent out a tentative feeler for coalition with Dr. F. E. Townsend's forces. Old age movement leaders ignored the hint.

Sinclair's organization, which almost elected him governor of California in 1934, is expected to take an active part in the state congressional elections.

Stengel Calls in Recruits From Allentown in Hopes Saving Ship.

NEW YORK. (UP). Chicago's National league champion Cubs moved into Brooklyn for a three game series with the Dodgers Friday with both clubs in the market for new records.

The Cubs are in a winning streak which has reached 13 consecutive games, the longest in the majors since the Cubs put on their record 21 game burst last fall. The Dodgers, staid proponents of baseball in reverse, are headed just the other way.

Having lost 14 of their last 16 contests for a total of 39 defeats this season, the daftiness boys have a good chance of topping Boston's 115 loses in 1935. They have dropped five more encounters than the Braves had on June 19 last year, and are going strong, with their best pitcher going on a strike and injuries besetting the club.

The Brooklyn management was forced to call Shortstop Johnny Hudson and Outfielder Eddie Wilson from its Allentown, Pa., farm to patch up the crumbling team. Manager Casey Stengel will attempt to use the recruits in place of Outfielders George Watkins and Johnny Cooney and Infielder Joe Stripp, who are on the injured list

Rumors persist that the Dodgers are on the block and will be sold shortly, but nothing official has come from either Judge Stephen McKeever or the Ebbett faction Each owns a half interest in the club, but McKeever has held out against selling, and the Ebbetts have not found a buyer who wants 50 percent.

Smith Blanks Cards.

Most of the National league schedule was rained out Thursday, the leading St Louis Cardinals absorbing a 4 to 0 defeat at the hands of the Boston Bees. Veteran Bob Smith pitched two hit ball to cut the Cards lead to a game and a half

In the American league, the New York Yankees increased their lead to four and one half games by defeating the Cleveland Indians 6 to 5 to take the series three games out of four.

Johnny Whitehead pitched a three hitter as the Chicago White Sox bumped the Boston Red Sox, 1 to 0. Washington's Senators strengthened their third place position by clubbing the Detroit Tigers 12 to 4, and the St. Louis Browns moved toward getting out of the cellar by licking the Philadelphia Athletics, 7 to 2.

YESTERDAY'S HERO: Bob Smith, 38 year old veteran of the Boston Bees' mound staff, who held the league leading St. Louis Cardinals to two hits

TARZAN AND THE LEOPARD MEN—BY EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS.

With unbelieving eyes Old Timer watched the girl in The Kid's arms and heard her sob, "Jerry! Jerry!" Old Timer's heart sank. His best friend, the man he had known only as The Kid, was Jerry Jerome, his rival for Kali Bwana's love. What cruel tricks fate can play!

For a long time Jerry and the girl were engaged in animated conversation. Old Timer stood at a distance, his whole being laden with disappointment. Finally Jerry called to him: "Come over here." Old Timer saw Kali's eyes glistening with joy and friendliness.

"You two know each other," Jerry grinned, "but you've never been formally introduced. This is my sister, Jessie. . . ." Old Timer's heart skipped a beat. Sister? Oh, how kind was fate after all! But then he remembered how she had spurned his declaration of love.

Tarzan paid little heed to this drama of human hearts. He was listening to Orando's recital of the final assault on the Leopard Men. "Thanks to you, O mighty one, they are destroyed," Orando concluded. "But what of their army in the field?" Tarzan asked anxiously.

Tourist—Why?

Guide—A flapper proposed to a chap here and he gave a yell and jumped down the edge of the cliff.

Prisoner—Then that proves to your honor that I'm telling the truth. I've lived there all my life.
